HOOPER'S DRY STAND POOLED BY OHIO MEN

Willis' Friends Insist Commerce Head Is Backed by Wet Leaders in State
SAME IN NEW JERSEY
Comes Out as Strong Dry but May Not Force Wets to Drop Their Support

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1928 Post Pub. Co.
Washington—Herbert Hoover's answer to Senator Borah's query as to how the secretary of commerce stands on the prohibition question may take that issue out of the Ohio primaries. Mr. Hoover flatly announces that he does not favor the repeal of the eighteenth amendment and that he does favor the "efficient, vigorous and sincere enforcement" of laws enacted to enforce the eighteenth amendment, which include the Volstead Act and any other proposals that may be embodied in law hereafter.

This is as "dry" a statement as any candidate has made so far as Ohio is concerned. The friends of Senator Willis, an ardent "dry" are insisting that people are known by the company they keep and that in Ohio, some of the leaders of the "wet" element are backing the Hoover candidacy. Similarly in New Jersey there are some "wets" behind the Hoover campaign along with the dries. The Anti-Saloon League has been in somewhat of a quandary over the situation because in Ohio Senator Willis has been the outstanding champion of the league; in fact it has been suggested from time to time that he might become the Anti-Saloon League's national candidate. But the prospect that Al Smith might become the Democratic nominee and the possibility that Mr. Hoover might win the nomination at Kansas City makes Anti-Saloon League leaders test their case for something new casting doubt on Mr. Hoover's position on prohibition that he could be used against him if he actually became the nominee. Senator Borah has insisted that he would ask every presidential candidate to say whether he favored the repeal of the eighteenth amendment so that the public would know how each stood on the question of law enforcement. Mr. Borah regards prohibition as an essential question of the hour on which every candidate's views should be proclaimed. Hoover has not only said that he favored the retention of the eighteenth amendment and having spoken of it now as a "great social and economic experiment, noble in motive, and far-reaching in purpose," which must be "worked out constructively," the friends of prohibition can hardly class him as a "wet." Whether they will insist that he force "wets" not to support him is another question, for Mr. Hoover has clearly showed that he himself is a "dry." On the platform plank he takes the same position as the Anti-Saloon League, in fact, it is doubtful whether Mr. Hoover intends at any stage of the proceedings to veer in any important particular away from the Coolidge policies.

SENTENCE DETECTIVE IN PLUMMER HEARING

Oshkosh—(AP)—Pleading guilty to a charge of perjury and admitting testimony he gave for the defense Tuesday in the reopened ouster case against Sheriff Walter Plummer was false, John Watkins, Milwaukee detective, Friday was sentenced to serve a year in the state penitentiary at Waupun. Sentence was imposed by Judge J. E. McDonald in county court. Watkins gave the court no reason for his change in testimony from his first appearance in the ouster case when he testified for the prosecution, and his second appearance Tuesday, when he testified for the Winnebago-co sheriff's defense.

Watkins told the court his testimony on his first appearance when he told of overhearing a conversation concerning "protection money" between Mrs. Beesie Elkins, Menasha, and Sheriff Plummer, was true. His testimony Tuesday that he heard only part of the conversation; that he was aided by Mrs. Elkins in filing it out, he declared was false.

Plummer, youthful Winnebago-co sheriff, was charged with bribery and malfeasance in office and a hearing of his case was held last month. An appeal for a new hearing was made and granted so that Watkins' testimony could be heard. Immediately after the testimony, the hearing was declared definitely closed by Commissioner Herbert J. Piper.

The district attorney Frank B. Keefe immediately charged Watkins with perjury.

PROPERTY DAMAGED AS BIG VOLCANO ERUPTS
Tokyo—(AP)—The greatest eruption of the Asamayama volcano in eight years occurred Thursday afternoon. A deafening roar accompanied the disturbance and large boulders were thrown from the crater doing much damage to property. The fire in the surrounding villages were terror-stricken. No casualties were reported.

Appleton Youngsters Get Into Movies With Jackie Ray, Famous Comedy Star

Every Boy and Girl in City Invited to Try Out for Parts in Big Picture

HOO RAY:
Hundreds of Appleton youngsters will echo this call throughout the city next week Tuesday and Wednesday when Jackie "Hoo" Ray of the famous Our Gang Comedy company of the movies comes to Appleton to be photographed in a motion picture under the auspices of The Appleton Post-Crescent.

Every boy and girl in the city is invited to participate in this picture which will be made on College Ave. and will be shown at Fischer's Appleton theatre for a week starting about March 1.

Jackie "Hoo" Ray and his staff of cameramen, directors and assistants will arrive in Appleton next Monday night and the business of taking the picture will start Tuesday and continue until Wednesday night. On Thursday and Friday Jackie will be at Fischer's Appleton theatre from Tuesday to Thursday as one of the attractions.

SEND PHOTOGRAPHS
Boys and girls who want to have parts in this picture are urged to send their photographs to Jackie "Hoo" Ray in care of the Appleton Post-Crescent. The name, address and phone number if you have one, should be written on the back of the photograph and Jackie also will appreciate any original gags and stories which you may have. From this collection of photographs will be selected the principal characters in the picture. In order to make an "Our Gang" comedy it will be necessary to have the counterparts of the famous youngsters who have created thousands of laughs for the nation.

Jackie is only 9 years of age but is a whizz-bang actor and a "regal feller." Whenever he goes he is followed by a mob of kids his own age and older and Appleton will not be an exception. He may be the opportunity for some Appleton youngster to break in something new casting doubt on Mr. Hoover's position on prohibition that he could be used against him if he actually became the nominee. Senator Borah has insisted that he would ask every presidential candidate to say whether he favored the repeal of the eighteenth amendment so that the public would know how each stood on the question of law enforcement. JOHN M'CORMACK MADE PAPAL COUNT BY CHURCH

New York—(AP)—John McCormack, noted tenor, has received notice from the Universal London Catholic newspaper, that he has been elevated to the Papal peerage with the title and dignity of count.

The title is one which the Papal court confers upon men of unblemished character who have in any way promoted the interests of society, the church and the holy see.

The Universal says it understands that this honor was conferred "in recognition of the great singer's eminent position in the world of art, together with his life long ardent devotion to his faith and to the holy see and his munificent generosity to Catholic causes both in the old and new worlds."

TEACHER EMULATES DEED OF SOCRATES

Budapest, Hungary—(AP)—Dramatic glass of poison in emulation of Socrates, Leo Bruck, school teacher, died in the midst of his pupils. After he had taken the fatal draught, Bruck addressed his class in these words: "Let me die as did Socrates, far from relatives, in the midst of my beloved pupils."

HERE'S JACKIE HIMSELF

Bandits Rob Two Missouri Banks Of $50,000 In Cash

Kansas City, Mo.—(AP)—Ten bandits, armed with two sub-machine guns, automatic shot guns and pistols, shot their way into the City Bank here Friday and escaped with loot estimated at approximately $20,000.

Despite the promiscuous firing by the seven men who entered the bank during the raid, no one was injured. The bandits drove away in two motor cars.

Entering the bank with a flourish, one bandit fired point blank at R. C. Kemper, president, and commanded the 50 employees and a dozen customers to lie on the floor. Two men carried sub-machine guns and two each with a hand of shot guns guarded the two doors.

At first the bandits forced clerks to toss money boxes over the top of the cages. Then two of the men went behind cages and scooped up money themselves.

Every time any one moved a shot was fired, and one pillar, from behind which an employee apparently attempted to fire at the bandits, was marked by six bullets. The machine guns were not fired. It was the second machine gun robbery here recently.

JANITOR STICKS TO MURDER STORY

Discrepancies in Goethals' Tale in Neighborhood of Crime
Kenosha—(AP)—A lengthy questioning by Kenosha-co officials Thursday night and Friday morning failed to shake August Goethals, Milwaukee janitor, in his story that Leo Chaffee, janitor, shot him now dead, confessed to him the murder of James Sears and Madeline Latimer.

Mrs. Leo Chaffee, wife of the Racine youth, was brought in by police Friday night to confront Goethals in an effort to check on his story. Mrs. Chaffee denied that her husband had been guilty of the crime.

Goethals claimed that Chaffee twice told him he had slain the pair, whose bodies were found on a road near here and the morning following the murder had showed him the bodies.

Discrepancies, however, developed in Goethals' story when he was taken to the neighborhood of the crime by authorities.

Goethals led police officers in the opposite direction on the Howard road from where the bodies were found. He was then taken north near the place where the bodies were found and asked to pick out the spot where they lay. He missed it by about 200 feet. He also said that there was no car near the spot. Officials said Sears' car was found 100 feet away in plain view.

Goethals had told Milwaukee-co officials that Chaffee had once admitted to him of the crime. Goethals explained the error by maintaining that he had been confused because Chaffee in bringing him to the scene had taken the highway road while this time he had come to the Brown Road a mile north.

SUPREME COURT SAYS GANG HEAD MUST HANG

Springfield, Ill.—(AP)—Charles Bruck, gunman and gang leader of southern Illinois, lost his last fight Friday when the Illinois Supreme court affirmed his conviction for murder and set Friday, April 13, as the date for his hanging.

COUNTRY'S NATIONAL GUARD TOTALS 184,093

Washington—(AP)—Present strength of the country's national guard units, federally recognized, the war department announced Friday, totals 184,093 officers and men. The headquarters of the Michigan division and the strength is:

Infantry: 32nd Lansing, Mich. 1,031; the Calvary division 2nd Wisconsin, Kentucky and Michigan 3620. Units not belonging to divisions have a strength of 40,892.

11 CANDIDATES FILE LATE BUT GO ON BALLOT

City Attorney Says Nomination Papers Filed Thursday Are Illegal

Although A. C. Bosser, city attorney, has expressed the opinion that nomination papers filed on Thursday, Feb. 23, less than 20 days before the primary election, are illegal, the names of the 11 candidates whose papers were filed on that day will be placed on the primary election ballots by E. L. Williams, city clerk. It was learned at the city hall Friday morning.

The city attorney in expressing his opinion suggested that the proper procedure would be to take the matter in to court to determine the legality of the papers filed Thursday. The city clerk stated that in view of the fact that he issued the statement, stating papers would be accepted after Feb. 22, he would place the names on the ballots unless ordered by a court not to do so.

Names of Thursday filers and the of fices for which they are candidates are as follows:

For mayor: John Goodland, Jr., treasurer, T. H. Brunk; assessor, George Peotter; Aldermen: First ward, W. C. Denstedt, C. W. Zelle; Second ward, F. Young; Third ward, A. H. Bunk; Fourth ward, R. H. Pfund; Fifth ward, O. F. Duesler; Sixth ward, Richard Refke and Alfred Wetzel.

Sections of the statutes on which the city attorney based his opinion say nomination papers shall be filed "not less than 20 days before the primary," and "the time within which an act shall be done as provided in any statute, when the act is to be done by a committee, shall be computed by excluding the first day and including the last, except if the last day be Sunday it shall be excluded." No reference is made to excluding holidays if the last day is a holiday.

The first intention that nomination papers filed Thursday were illegal, was contained in a newspaper article in which the Madison city attorney stated that midnight, Wednesday, Feb. 22, was the latest papers could be filed. City hall officials immediately asked for an opinion from the city attorney and he announced his opinion late Thursday afternoon.

If all names are placed on the ballot only two city officers will not have opposition. They are Alfred Bosser, city attorney and George Peotter, assessor. Two candidates will be in the race for city treasurer and three for nomination for mayor.

Every candidate will have opposition and in several instances there are two or three men running against the incumbent. The Fourth ward seems to be the political hotbed with four men seeking the aldermanic nomination besides Jerry Callahan, present representative. There are four candidates for nomination in both the First and Sixth wards three in the Second ward for the long term and three in the Third and Fifth wards.

Candidates for the various offices are:

Mayor—Albert C. Fule, John Goodland and J. August Hawer.
Treasurer—Fred Bachman, T. H. Brunk.
Assessor—Alfred C. Bosser, George Peotter.
Alderman First ward—Mike Steinhauser, F. M. Shoemaker, C. W. Zelle, W. C. Denstedt.
Second ward—one year term—John Dierker, C. E. Earl, two year term, Charles D. Thompson, E. F. Young, H. F. Loselozza.
Third ward—George Richard, R. H. Wheeler, A. H. Bunk.
Fourth ward—Jerry Callahan, R. H. Pfund, C. F. Wassenberg, George Brunk, C. E. Earl.
Fifth ward—Wegner, Haseman, H. J. Pyle, C. F. Dackie.
Sixth ward—Fred Wieser, Richard Refke, H. F. Earl, Alfred Wetzel.

WIFE'S NOVEL MAY WIN DIVORCE FOR STATESMAN

Paris—(AP)—Passages from his wife's novels were before the Versailles court Friday as grounds for divorce in the suit brought by Balthazare, Colby, former American secretary of state.

Former president Alexander Miller, of France appearing in behalf of Mrs. Colby said "that Mrs. Colby published a novel, 'Green Forest,' showing a politician, who in every way resembled her husband, in an unfavorable light. Then shortly after this, M. Millerland stated, she published another book in which President Harland was attacked."

He advanced the "scurrilous" nature of the literary wife as grounds for divorce.

The plea for freedom on behalf of Mr. Colby served to revive rumors in New York that he intended to marry the former child prodigy, Winifred Sackville Stoner, 2nd.

FORMER TEACHER HELD IN GRAND LARCENY CASE

Chicago—(AP)—Clarence Uhl, 32, former West Allis school teacher, was bound over to the Cook-co grand jury Thursday on a charge of grand larceny and was held for trial under bond of $10,000.

Uhl pleaded guilty to five counts of larceny and was ordered held in the county jail at Evanston awaiting trial because he could not furnish the bail.

Uhl confessed Feb. 5 to looting lockers at the Garrett Theological institute at Northwestern university, where he was a student.

Republican Candidates All Favor Prohibition

Washington, (AP)—Senator Borah Republican, Idaho, who has appointed himself to find out the voters' how presidential candidates stand on prohibition, now has answers from three of them, all party men, a conservative Republican, and the other Republican candidates, Senator Willis of Ohio, and Curtis of Kansas, in expressing the opinion that the prohibition amendment should be speedily enacted.

This is not what the country more needs, he said, but he added that he would support the amendment if it were passed. He said he had not heard of any other Republican candidate who had not said he would support the amendment.

Senator Borah said he had not heard of any other Republican candidate who had not said he would support the amendment.

THINK 18 MEN DEAD IN BLAST IN COAL MINE

Hold Little Hope That Miners in Arkansas Explosion Area Are Alive

Fort Smith, Ark.—(AP)—Two men were known to have been killed and sixteen others are believed to be dead as the result of an explosion Friday in a mine of the Manna Coal Co. at Jenny Lind, Ark. 11 miles from here. Rescue workers were impeded by fire in the wrecked mine. Approximately 125 men were in this and connecting mines at the time of the blast but more than 100 of them are believed to have escaped.

Rescue crews were directed by Claude Special state mine inspector and W. E. Pendleton, president of the company, and were sent into the mine immediately.

The cause of the explosion has not been determined.

The blast came from the back section of mine No. 18, which with mine No. 20, connects with mine No. 3.

Those who escaped were said to have worked their way through mine No. 20.

It was not definitely determined how many escaped but mine officials estimated that at least 15 and possibly 18 men still were in the mine. They worked their way through mine No. 20, which was the last hope that any of those remaining in the explosion area still were alive.

SEEK "DOCTOR HUFF" IN NEW JERSEY MURDER CASE

Barnardville, N. J.—(AP)—A "Doctor Huff" or "Hoff" was being sought by police Friday as the slayer of Miss Margaret Brown, 40-year-old governess, who was burned to death near here Monday night.

Search for the slayer was intensified by receipt of an anonymous letter in which the writer confessed the killing and returned $2,500 in bonds and cash he had taken from his victim.

A friend of Mrs. Brown's said the murdered woman had been meeting a man named either "Hoff" or "Huff" and who called himself a "doctor" in central park. He was known to be the owner of an automobile similar to that seen near the scene of the murder. The letter said the writer had told Mrs. Brown he was a medical student.

In a letter mailed from Newark on Wednesday, the writer said he struck the woman when she resisted his advances and believing her dead he fled. He was driving in gasoline and ignited them.

FAMOUS FRENCH TENOR DIES AT HOME IN NICE

Nice, France—(AP)—Edmond Clement, an almost 60-year-old sang for the first time at the Opéra Comique, and rapidly gained a reputation as a great French tenor, died here at the age of 60.

The report of his death, which was confirmed by the French press, came at a time when Clement was preparing to leave for the United States to tour.

THREATEN LIFE OF CHICAGO POLICEMAN

Word Passed in Gangland to "Get" Deputy Commissioner O'Connor

Chicago—(AP)—The life of William E. O'Connor, deputy police commissioner, has been threatened, he said Friday because of his efforts to run down the "bomby" terror.

O'Connor was told that he was being threatened by a gang of men who were planning to kill him.

O'Connor's superior, Police Commissioner Michael Hughes, as well as Mayor Thompson and a dozen other city officials are being given constant police protection as they pass without any clues to the identity of the bombers or the impostors who were near them.

Walter G. Walker, the assistant state attorney in charge of the investigations, was reported in the morning that the man in question was a national problem.

He said he was not in a position to say whether he had a definite plan of action.

COAL OFFICIAL REFUSES TO ANSWER SENATE PROBE

Letter golf hanks sizes don't count. Any SHOE fits any FOOT after three gentle tugs. One solution is on page 11.

THE RULES

1.—The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in a pair, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.

2.—You can change only one letter at a time.

3.—You must have a complete word, of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count.

4.—The order of letters cannot be changed.

SENTENCE BADGER GIRL FOR FORGERY

Story of Innocence Exploded, Girl Gets Prison Term

Minneapolis.—A picturesque story of how an innocent Wisconsin girl was made the dupe of a designing companion and entangled in forgery charges proved to be just a picturesque story when matched with the records of Hennepin-co district court Thursday. As a result, the girl was sent to prison for a term of one to ten years.

The story was told when Helen Peterson, 25 years old, who said her parents lived at Ros Lake, Wis., was arraigned before Judge Frank E. Reed on a second degree forgery charge. The girl pleaded guilty but when questioned she unfolded a tale of duplicity that softened the heart of the court.

She was about to enter a downtown theatre, Miss Peterson related, when she slipped and fell. Another girl assisted her to arise and after brief introductions both entered the theatre. Afterwards they had lunch together. Miss Peterson said, and then the new friend offered a check of $10. Miss Peterson said she cashed this and later the other check for $24.75. The prisoner said she did not know the checks were forgeries. The judge, believing the story, put the girl on probation for five years, but the probation officer, to whom she was sent, decided to check through its records.

"They found fingerprints and records that prompted them to send her back to court," where Miss Peterson broke down and wept, confessing that she had a previous conviction in Ramsey-co district court, serving a year for forgery.

"I told the story because I did not want my parents to know," she tearfully explained to the court.

CABBAGE GROWERS FORM ORGANIZATION

Brown-co Cabbage Association Organized at Mill Center Thursday

BY W. F. WINSEY
MILL CENTER—At the one-day farm institute held here Thursday, and sponsored by J. N. Kavanaugh, county agent, and Albert Pamperin, chairman of the local committee, cabbage growers present organized themselves into the Brown County Cabbage Association and decided to incorporate at once. Small sacks to be filled with samples of soil to be sent to College of Agriculture where the samples will be analyzed, were distributed by Mr. Kavanaugh, together with blanks to be filled with the owners of the samples. The principal speakers were Mr. Kavanaugh, Phil Laxby and Matthew Schaefer, president and secretary of the Appleton Cabbage Growers Association, respectively, and Robert Amundson, agricultural agent of Outagamie co.

Mr. Bixby said that before the Appleton Cabbage Growers association was formed, the growers were raising all kinds of cabbage, small and large, soft and hard, poor quality and good, and nearly all of it was infected. Since the association was formed, the growers have been raising the kind of cabbage that they deemed was the best and last year saved $6,000 in the purchase of seed and their cabbage was free from disease.

Mr. Schaefer, in his talk on the working of the Appleton association, said the growers know in advance that the seed they order will not produce inferior cabbage nor anything but the best grade. In case an association is formed, said Mr. Schaefer, the growers can get seed at $2.00 a pound and be assured of the best.

In his talk, Mr. Amundson said Appleton Cabbage Growers association was the second largest in the state that organization dates back a number of years. Before the organization was effected, the members acting individually, had trouble getting the kind of cabbage seed ordered and for which they paid high prices. Now the growers are getting the kind of seed they want.

Officers of the new organization elected by the board of directors are Albert Pamperin, president; S. E. Lewis, vice president; and Charles Aebischer, secretary and treasurer.

The board of directors, elected by the membership, is composed of Albert Pamperin, Frank Miller, Fred Kropp, C. H. Dickinson, Charles Aebischer, S. E. Lewis, William J. Pamperin and Cliff Streckenbach.

Members of the association are, George Lucia, C. H. Dickinson, Frank Miller, R. S. Pamperin, Grover Pamperin, Charles Aebischer, Walter Kempf, Solomon Anderson, Leonard Kempf, William Streckenbach, Bruce Pamperin, F. E. Lewis, Charles Kropp, Fred Kropp, Peter Lindsey, Henry Kropp, Charles Miller, A. R. Pamperin, William J. Pamperin, J. F. Kavanaugh, Jesse Dickinson, William Aebischer, Fred Zittlow.

The association adopted a constitution and bylaws similar to those of the Appleton organization.

GOVERNOR SEEKS NEW WAR AGAINST PLAGUE

Official Proclamation Links Tuberculosis and Crime Prevention

MADISON—(AP)—In an official proclamation Governor Fred R. Zimmerman urges Wisconsin citizens to cooperate in a campaign to be conducted during March for the early discovery of tuberculosis cases.

The executive proclamation urges that all citizens of the state who are in doubt concerning the presence of tubercular symptoms in their own bodies, submit to a thorough physical examination to determine the condition of their health.

The campaign will be conducted by the state, the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association, and affiliated organizations.

"Tuberculosis has been called the burden of modern civilization," Governor Zimmerman's proclamation says. In 1908 tuberculosis exceeded all other diseases as a cause of death in Wisconsin. In 1925 it had dropped to sixth in death causes.

"Crime and delinquency go hand in hand. Tuberculosis is not laid directly to delinquency, but it does lead to economic inefficiency. The relationship between tuberculosis and delinquency is a field for fruitful study and investigation in the interest of crime prevention."

"The death rate in the United States has dropped 100 per cent in the past

POLICE ASKED TO HELP FIND FAMILY DESERTER

Police here have been asked to help search for Fred Bus, 45, wanted at Sheboygan Falls for abandonment, according to notice received Friday morning. Bus weighs about 160 pounds, is five feet ten inches tall, has brown hair and a fair complexion.

Twenty years. Suffering, death and sorrow have diminished, but there still remains much to be done. We know its cause, we know the disease is spread, and we know that it can frequently be arrested. "We know, therefore, a condition which should be peculiarly susceptible to control and to a degree we may say that efforts to this end have been fairly successful. We should continue what we have been doing, only concentrating our energies so that what we already know may be carried to every corner of the country; so that every individual will have placed before him the best that our present knowledge has to offer, while at the same time we make every effort to improve our methods to correct our mistakes and develop a spirit of cooperation between the scientist, the physician, the patient, the legislator and the man in the street."

NEWS OF NEENAH AND MENASHA

SOCIETY

LARGE CROWD VISITS
NEW MENASHA SCHOOL AND HEARS PROGRAM

Dr. H. M. Wriston Makes Dedictory Speech in Butte
des Morts Building

Menasha—Several thousand persons attended the new Butte des Morts
school building Thursday evening following the dedicatory program in the gymnasium. While the gymnasium has been in use for some time, it was the first time the main building was thrown open to the public and many surprises were in store for the visitors. Quite a number of whom were from out of town. The high school band kept things lively in the gymnasium while the crowd was assembling by giving a concert from 7:15 to 8 o'clock. All seats were soon occupied withstanding extra chairs had been pressed into service and many were compelled to stand.

Supt. J. E. Kutowski gave the address of welcome on behalf of the city.
Menasha, the mayor and members of the common council and the board of education. The city of Menasha has made wonderful progress in the last few years in housing its children, he said, comparing the new building with the old.

In speaking of the new gymnasium
the superintendent gave C. E. Pierce, a member of the board of education,
credit for having worked harder for it than anyone else. To have built the gymnasium at the high school would have meant an expenditure of $250,000.
Both buildings were erected for approximately $125,000, the main building costing about $90,000 and the gymnasium approximately $25,000, he said.

"There are numerous clubs and organizations in the city," said the speaker, "that have been kind enough to give us something for the building here. The Economics club has donated a picture for one of the rooms. The Women's Relief corps, the Legion have presented flags. After the school is in session, they will present the flags to each of the grades."

Mrs. Friedland, patriotic instructor of Menasha Woman's Relief Corps presented a flag to the school as part of the program. The ceremony was concluded with a salute to the flag.
Dr. Wriston said he saw a chart of the United States which showed the amount of money spent annually for education and the amount spent for other departments of the government including the war department. If you study the budget and then take the state teachers colleges, universities and other schools into consideration, you will find it is a tremendous expense. We spend more money per capita for education than any other people in the world, he said.

"The citizens of this country," said Dr. Wriston, "have been willing to spend their money for education. Now the question arises—is it worth while.
I have heard business men say I don't believe all this stuff. It seems to me we ought to go back to the three R's of school and let it go at that."

"If they want to go back to the old simplicities they would have to cut out many things. We cannot simplify our educational program. We cannot cut out modern methods and even business men cannot dispense with the typewriter."

Mayor N. G. Remmel was the closing speaker. He said it has been his pleasure and honor to serve the city for 22 years. As to whether he was successful he said he was leaving that for the people to say. It is a fact that no country on the earth has received so many blessings as the United States, the mayor declared. As for a platform, he said our first allegiance is to God Almighty and our second to our country, right or wrong.

Mayor Remmel said he was not a candidate for reelection and advised taxpayers to select their best men for city offices. He congratulated the board of education and city on their new school building. He said the citizens should be proud of the board of education for it has built the schools until they are second to none for a city of its size.

Supt. J. E. Kutowski presided at the dedication. Vocal selections were furnished by the high school glee club.

SINCLAIR AND THE FEDERAL COURTS

Harry F. Sinclair has a very poor opinion of our federal courts. His venture to obtain control of governmental oil fields through corrupt practices, rendered void by the Supreme Court of the United States, was not enough. He had to listen to Justice Suddens at Washington declare: "The evidence in this case has a most sinister aspect; I can see only in it an obstruction of justice," to which was added a six months' imprisonment for contempt of court, the highest punishment, we believe, which can be meted out for that offense. No wonder Mr. Sinclair is somewhat dazed.

Throughout a trial that has lasted over a month, with the most able and eloquent counsel that money could obtain at his side, with all the political pull that concealed wires could operate, with half a dozen senators testifying to the good character of his associates, with bluster, easy excuses, long drawn out explanations, and even attacks on President Coolidge "for hounding him," he finds himself looking through the iron bars of a federal prison.

Mr. Sinclair did not properly reckon with his host. He had the shopworn idea that money and influence could get him any sort of protection. He was able to dazzle jurors with visions of "an automobile a block long"; he was once able to buy a cabinet member; perhaps, too, he has influenced elections even on a national scale; but despite all his persistent efforts he has been unable to find a back door to the courthouse. The one thing that has stood through all these nauseating oil scandals that could not be touched, that was found impossible to weaken, that resisted every effort of money and of influence and of power, was the federal courts. They stand out with a clear profile of almost perfect dependability in their sense of loyalty to law and order and government, in their ability to face, ferret out and deal with corruption for what it is.

There is a reason for this situation which is too often overlooked, a condition which our so-called progressive friends have in their blindness attempted to remove—the independence of the judiciary. And by that we mean independence of everything. Federal judges are appointed virtually for life or, as the constitution says, "during good behavior." The men thus appointed are put above and beyond any sort of control whatever. They are entirely without a master. They are without any purpose except to serve the interests of justice and in that manner serve their country. With this type of courts the rights of the people, and particularly the common people who really understand the situation so little, are fully and completely protected.

The right to punish for contempt of court either in the disobedience of orders properly made or the contumacious interference with its orderly processes, is one of the rights that has often and recently been denounced as "an autocratic power," an interference with "the rights of the people," a denial of "the right of trial by jury." Labor organizations have sometimes led the assault upon the power of punishing for contempt of court. No one seems to have much care for that particular thing in the law or constitution which appears to interfere with the freedom of action of the particular one criticizing it. That the law may sometimes seem to interfere in the disputes between capital and labor is but an incident of the principle that laws must be made and enforced for all alike, rich and poor, high and low. It was a singular thing in the Sinclair trial that Mr. Sinclair made the same demand that has been made by labor leaders when they have run afoul of court orders, a demand for a trial by jury, a demand that was denied because the right of trial by jury does not apply to one charged with the offense of contempt of court.

Courts are, and ever must be, endowed with the authority of not only compelling obedience to orders made but punishing those who directly interfere with the administration of justice by obstructing a trial as Sinclair obstructed his own trial in his almost successful attempt to influence jurors who wanted "automobiles a block long" more than they wanted to see a criminal punished.

While the people are well-nigh sick of these odious oil cases they have, nevertheless, served an important public lesson. The men who bought a cabinet member in order to take from the government its oil reserves have lost everything, the reserves, the millions of dollars of improvements they made to the reserves, the respect of their associates, and their own personal liberty. It has been a long, hard and arduous struggle but justice has triumphed. We rather think the people have not only breathed deep relief at the results but go back to the ordinary movements of life with strong and renewed confidence in the courts of the country.

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE

This year the United States Department of Commerce passes the milestone that marks the first quarter century of its service. The development of American commerce was not delayed to await such Federal aid, yet in twenty-five years of operation the Department of Commerce has made itself so helpful to trade and industry that wonder is expressed how we managed so well without it.

The Department of Commerce reaches out into every country of consequence, keeping its fingers constantly on the pulse of world trade. Through these outposts it collects up-to-the-minute data on economic, commercial and financial conditions at home and abroad, as they affect the availability of markets for particular products at particular times. At home its surveys cover cooperative buying and selling, trade practices and merchandising methods of various industries in different parts of the country. Every week the bureau answers the inquiries of an average of 3,000 visitors and telephone callers and sends out some 37,000 communications by mail.

The scope of the department is very broad, and among the far-reaching developments have been those within the Bureau of Standards. The bureau was constituted to maintain the national standards of weights and measures, but in recent years Congress has greatly added to its duties, so that its researches are now concerned, not only with standards of weights and measures and the physical properties of materials, but also with standards of quality, of practice and of performance.

The services rendered by this department are not generally appreciated because they are not generally realized. Like many other things in life that are necessary to our wellbeing, it is so unobtrusive that we fail to remember its existence.

BEAUTIFUL CITIES

A northern newspaper writer who has been traveling through, and studying, the new South tells in a recent article of a "city of stately buildings in the Grecian order." It is Nashville, "one of the few growing cities which have any architectural air. Other cities are mostly collections of many good and bad ideas."

The newest buildings in the Tennessee city are all planned in harmony with each other and with the duplicate of the Parthenon of which Nashville is so proud. Another dispatch from Nashville reveals something about the whole state which indicates that community betterment is a matter of general concern there. A prize has been offered by the Tennessee Federation of Women's clubs to be given to the community which makes greatest progress toward cleaning up and beautifying its environs during 1928. Although it is part of a national project, more seems to be doing about it in Tennessee than in other states.

Cleanliness and beauty along with architectural simplicity and harmony will go far to remove from American cities their reputation of ugliness. Older communities that have allowed themselves to "just grow" will find it a good deal harder to achieve such ideals than will other places that began early to take pride in their appearance along with their material progress.

A New England newspaper says "buckers are coming in better and being shipped to New York." Why not ship a few of them west? New York seems to have plenty.

Well, things could be worse. A young man named Hickman isn't bothered at all by insurance men.

The Prince of Wales has been appointed "master of the merchant navy." Man overboard!

Health Talks

Noted Physician and Author
Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. The writer's name is never printed. Only inquiries of general interest are answered in this column, but all letters will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, in care of this paper.

THE RELIEF OF ARTHRITIS

I am convinced that better times are coming and man's knowledge of man is slowly but steadily increasing. It is fully two years now since anyone has written to ask me what's good for rheumatism. The very best thing I know for rheumatism is just to forget it, if anything really ails you, and devote yourself to the sensible business of getting relief for what ails you. You have some kind of joint trouble, arthritis, yes, that is obvious enough. But what is the nature of your trouble? Is it perhaps infectious arthritis—inflammation of the joint produced by germs? If it is, your case makes a nice problem for the physician; it is his problem to decide what kind of germs is responsible, and how they got into the joint or joints. Is it streptococcal arthritis, with the septic focus hidden in a sinus or in a silent abscess at the root of the tooth? It would be wise to have this investigated by a doctor who knows his way about. Is it gonorrheal arthritis? Syphilitic tuberculosis? In any case it is mighty foolish to assume it is "rheumatism" and fritter away your time and substance on alleged cures or remedies for such a nonentity.

Maybe your arthritis is not of the infectious type at all. Maybe it is noninfectious or trophic arthritis. About half of all cases, as well as we know at present, are of the infectious type, and half are of the trophic type. We know very little about the trophic type of arthritis. But our ignorance need not prevent us from giving sufferers such relief as we can.

In every case the patient's physician alone can judge whether activity, exercise, use of the affected joint, or inactivity, rest, or supporting dressings or appliances should be used. Liniments, salves, and other external medications, though of course without systemic effect (except such volatile substances as may be inhaled) are often very serviceable in relieving stiffness, soreness and pain. They do this through the influence of counterirritation mainly, and through the influence of massage secondarily. There are many good liniments or embrocations, none objectionable if it gives the patient any comfort or palliation.

Neither external medication nor internal medication can be expected to give more than temporary relief or palliation. I believe, I say this fully recognizing the place of salicylates, salicylic derivatives, various so-called alternatives, and various so-called uric acid eliminators. Some of these medicines unquestionably afford distinct relief to the pain and soreness of arthritis, but I do not believe that any of them has proved curative or even of lasting benefit. But if I had arthritis I should certainly have some of these medicines when I wanted 'em. I suppose if I ever do develop the disease, I'll get the chronic progressive pessimistic type.

The innumerable baths, air, water, mud, bakings, massages, and other physical or mechanical methods of treatment, surely cannot be called curative though they frequently give the patient grateful comfort and for that they deserve credit. The latest development in this line, and as it seems to me the most efficient, is diathermy, a method of getting heat into the deep tissues by means of special electrical apparatus. Patients uniformly praise this treatment, and in medical hands it will at least do no harm.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Bogs and Kids Should Have Pets

I am a lover of all kinds of animals, particularly dogs and cats. I have been told that a cat is one of the greatest carriers of germs and that this has been proved by the fact that they desire credit for my fondness for cats I am unwilling to believe this. Please tell me if it is true. If cats are a menace to the health of the people who does the city license dogs and allow cats to have their freedom? (H. O. C.)

Answer—Yes, it has been proved that dogs and cats may carry disease germs. But don't let that worry you. It doesn't worry me any, when I want to have a cat or dog. Just take reasonable care to wash your hands carefully after petting or playing with the cat or dog, as a precaution against contracting parasitic infestation. Dogs and cats are often the hosts or intermediate hosts of roundworms and other intestinal parasites, and their saliva may contain the eggs of these worms.

Good Book on Home Nursing

Please give me the name of the best book you know on home nursing, especially nursing in confinement cases. Something nontechnical, that is, something a woman without special training can understand. (Mrs. L. A. M.)

Answer—the best book on home nursing I can suggest is "Simplified Nursing" by Florence Dakin, R. N., published by J. B. Lippincott company, $3. I know of no such book about obstetric nursing.

Tomato Juice for the Bimbo

Have a fine baby 6 months old and wish information about giving tomato juice. He dislikes orange juice. (Mrs. K. E.)

Answer—The juice of fresh tomato or factory canned tomato, or home canned tomato if the home canning is done by a vacuum process (without cooking or boiling in air), is quite as efficient as orange juice for the essential purpose, the prevention of scurvy. Every baby should receive some fresh fruit or tomato juice daily from the age of six weeks. A few drops at first, gradually increased so the baby will receive an ounce or two daily when five months old.

LIBRARY ADVENTURES

By Arnold Mulder

THE "TRANSITION" OF "TRANSITION"

Recently I gave a summary in this series of Will Durant's novel, "Transition." It may be profitable also to take a look at it as a work of art, not merely as a social document of our time.

It seems to me that the book is less well done than Will Durant could have done it, that he is betrayed by the subtleties of writing, autobiography under the guise of fiction. The two are so dissimilar that it is probably next to impossible to amalgamate them successfully. If he had frankly told the story of his life under real names the record would probably have greatly gained in intensity. If on the other hand he had frankly set out to write a novel with the idea of "Transition" as its theme he would have been much better off to throw away a great deal of his own story and invent scenes to fit the theme.

He is betrayed by his indecision between the two art forms in the selection of significant details. Everybody knows that little things that have happened in one's own life seem far more significant than they really were. They appear important because they happened to us personally. Very young writers often tell stories that are entirely banal and when it is pointed out to them they are astonished. Every incident, they will tell you, is based on fact. Deep in their own hearts and minds they have stored away the electricity that surrounds a personal fact and in writing the story that atmosphere surrounds each smallest incident. They forget that for the general reader the facts are cold, with no electricity in them.

In "Transition" the hero, John Lemaire, is invited by a rich friend, Henry Alden, to tour Europe with him. In real life Alden Freeman asked Will Durant to do the same thing. Lemaire is asked to meet Alden in a certain hotel in St. Petersburg. Alden is not there. Lemaire is up against it, with no money and no credit. For a short time he suffers great anxiety, thinking he is stranded in the heart of Russia. Soon Alden is found in another hotel and everything is O. K.

Taking "Transition" as a novel, the incident has no meaning. It provides a very short moment of suspense—perhaps for half a page or so, but that is about all. There is nothing leading up to it and nothing flowing from it. It is merely an incident that stands alone. It adds nothing to the progress of the story, nothing to our conception of the characters. It is just an incident. As fiction it is without value. Doubtless the same thing happened to Will Durant when he went to meet Alden Freeman in Europe. As personal reminiscence it had a factitious importance in the author's mind. But the mere transference of personal reminiscence to fiction means nothing. In significant fiction details and incidents are chosen with great care with reference to their cumulative effect. In this case it is a mere incident and hence waste material.

The novel, as a novel, suffers from this habit all through. John Lemaire and his young wife are taking a walking trip from New York to Philadelphia, following the railroad. A train approaches unobserved and John has just time to save himself and his wife by the narrowest of margins.

As an incident it is interesting enough but as a detail that advances the "transition" theme or that rounds out the characters it is nil. The author seems to be conscious of this and he labors to show that his first thought was for his wife's safety, not for his own. He seems to mean to give for a touch in character development. But it is unconvincing. The incident probably happened to Will Durant and his young wife and so it was dragged into this novel.

There are many incidents of that kind which Durant, if he had written an authentic novel, would have rejected. It is probable that the sentimental close of the story may also be attributed to this fact. After his religious and political upheavals John Lemaire becomes bourgeois merely because he has married a young girl and has become the father of a child. This, fact undoubtedly looms very large in Will Durant's mind, but as the "reconciliation and content" of John Lemaire it is pretty banal. Durant seems himself conscious of this and apologizes for it, but in an authentic novel no apology would be necessary for a conclusion. It would have carried its own conviction.

The Question Box

Information on almost any subject can be secured by sending questions to the Post-Crescent Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, director, Washington D. C. The bureau does not answer questions pertaining to medicine nor does it express opinions on the merits of stocks and bonds. Send a 2-cent stamp or a stamped and self-addressed envelope with your question.

Q. Is it good policy to use immature fruit in making grape juice? E. T. C.

A. Only fully ripe, sound, clean fruit should be taken in making grape juice, as the use of immature fruit will result in the production of juice having a harsh, unpalatable quality, while decayed or unclean fruit will produce juices with undesirable foreign flavors.

Q. How were the railroads affected by the Mississippi flood? A. F. B.

A. The American Railway Association's flood committee reports that 13,000 miles of railroads were destroyed by the flood and of the $10,000,000 in loss sustained by the carriers, the Illinois Central, with $2,700,000 suffered the heaviest damage, while the Missouri Pacific was next with $1,002,250.

DAILY HINTS FOR HEALTH

BABIES SOMETIMES BORN WITH DISLOCATED HIP

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBELN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association, Board of Hygiene, The Health Magazine

Apparently no one knows exactly just why children are sometimes born with both hips dislocated and are thereby crippled until some operation is performed that will improve the condition.

Sometimes the condition is not noted immediately after birth since the hips look alike when observed casually. They seem to be about the same length and the trouble is not discovered until the child begins to walk.

Dr. John L. Porter points out that a single dislocation produces a slight limp, but grows worse as the child becomes more active. As the weight increases, the difficulty becomes greater and walking is still more awkward.

MOSTLY GIRLS
If both hips are dislocated, which occurs in about one-fourth of the cases, the child begins to walk later, waddles, and has greater disability and discomfort. Apparently 85 per cent of the cases occur in girls.

One suggestion as to the cause of this condition gives a mechanical explanation; namely, the position in which the child lies previous to birth is such that severe pressure upon it may throw the head of the large bone of the thigh out of the socket in which it should lie.

If a child limps noticeably when it begins to walk, consultation should be had immediately with a physician. A careful examination with the X-ray may show the heads of one or both of the thigh bones are not in their sockets.

Today, a competent specialist will replace the dislocated head of the bone in the socket by manipulating it, carrying the head back into place by the same route through which it was displaced.

If too long a time has elapsed during which the bone has been out of place, it may be impossible to restore the head to the socket by manipulation. The shortened muscles may be too strong, or the socket may have filled up and be too shallow.

SOONER THE BETTER
As a rule the younger the child the more easily the hip can be replaced in proper position. After the third or fourth year, manipulation is still more difficult, and after the sixth year frequently impossible without great danger of injury to the tissues.

After such a condition has existed over a long period, the only hope of restoration lies in the use of surgical operation, opening up the tissues, and manipulating them directly.

See-Sawing On Broadway

By Gilbert Senn

New York—New York snap-shots—Corn poppers in an underground shop in the Pennsylvania station. Which reminds me that there's an opening in Manhattan for some enterprising young man who wants to start a popcorn stand. In all the length and breadth of Manhattan Island, I have never seen one.

Those green, orange and red be-ribboned bunches of spaghetti in the cafe windows. And a sign in one of these restaurants: "The doctor doesn't tell you not to eat hotcakes—he eats 'em himself."

Which may be the reason the doctor is unable to tell anyone anything. Those gay Austrian scarfs and sweaters youngsters are wearing on the avenue. Bill Van, the comic, who for countless years has impersonated Lieberknecht, yet never takes a drink. Livellwyn Powys, the critic and novelist, strolling through the twilight like a brooding Hamlet, his brown English cape over his shoulders. The matinee-looking men in the mid-Forty tea rooms. And the rather tragic youthfulness of the girls you see these nights in the speakeasies. And those be-ribboned college students trying to sober up over oyster stew in Grand Central station. It's all a bit sad.

The green young grass sprouting in Central Park. And another skyscraper rising under the name of Leif-cour. They call him the "man who owns a skyline." It's ceased to be a skyline and is almost a city by itself. For a city of more than 100,000 persons occupy his buildings during the working hours. And he started out as an East Side newsboy.

The fog horns playing their tireless discords through the murky nights. And most of Manhattan tosses in its beds what with the wailing of one and the groaning of another.

The best line I've read this week was Dorothy Parker's comment in The New Yorker that she was trying to make just enough money "to keep body and soul apart."

They're passing around that commuter story about the young married couple from Connecticut who came in to New York to attend the theater.

"Darling," suddenly burst out the husband, fumbling in his pockets, "We should have brought the piano."

"Why?" asked the puzzled wife. "Because the theater tickets are on it."

And they're also passing around that one about the vaudeville actor, who trained doves and rabbits and pigs. Then he went about the agencies trying to get booking for his act. But everywhere he met with discouragement. Of course, he went through the routine of leaving his name and address "in case anything comes up."

A few months later he received notice from an agent: "Come right over. Have arranged 20 weeks booking."

To which he replied, "It's too late. I ate the last of my act yesterday."

Oberammergau's Passion Play owes its origin to a vow made by inhabitants of the village in 1633 in expression of gratitude at the cessation of the plague.

Just One Day More!

UNCLE SAM FINDS OIL COMPETITION IN OWN BACK YARD

Latin American Countries Quick to Realize Importance of Oil Fields

EDITORS NOTE: This is the ninth of a series on the economic, romantic and international features of the world oil situation.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Washington — America's vital struggle for foreign oil reserves has long been in progress in Latin America, which we are almost accustomed to regard as our own back yard. Outside the United States, honors appear to be no better than even as between our own companies and the great British oil system, the Royal Dutch Shell and the Anglo-Persian. The important thing to consider in studying the oil situation in the western hemisphere, which is supposed to contain a little less than half the world's oil, is the existence of vast oil supplies underground which this nation should be able to depend upon in the future when its own reserves run low.

GREAT SOUTHERN RESERVES
For years we have been importing oil from Mexico and many authorities agree that a large part of the oil of South American fields, which are only beginning to be tapped.

Latin-American oil will be a consideration in planning this country's future national defense. It is quite true that we might be cut off from this supply in case of war with one or more other large naval powers, but it is vastly more likely that we would be totally unable to depend on our oil interests in the remote fields of Russia and the Near East. Only a blockade or Latin-American enmity could prevent us from using South American oil.

In view of these facts and the apparent danger that our oil production will be far from adequate in a few more years it is interesting to find that the British companies not only seem to possess about half as much oil in Mexico as our own interests, which have something like 60 per cent of it, but that they have a distinct edge on us in Venezuela and have perhaps acquired a commanding position in the important area of Colombia.

It has been roughly estimated that there are nine billion barrels of oil available in South America — twice our supposed domestic supply — and most of it is in Venezuela and Colombia.

Venezuela is becoming one of the world's most important petroleum countries. Government officials here seem to agree that British companies long ago acquired nearly all her best known oil fields and today they control considerably more than half of her current production and a far greater presumptive underground supply than do our companies. Venezuela is regarded as more friendly to us, however, than to the British interests.

CAMP ON THEIR TRIAL
It is alleged in Washington that as often as American oil men discover and begin to open up new fields, Anglo-Persian and Royal Dutch representatives camp all around them and buy up all the possible oil reserves in sight.

American oil men at first had the upper hand in Colombia. Today 50,000 barrels of American-produced oil flow daily to the sea through a 350-mile pipeline.

But while we are getting the oil out of our concessions in Colombia as fast as it can be obtained the British are acquiring reserves which may serve them well in the future.

In October, it was reported here that Anglo-Persian interests had virtually clinched a concession of 6,000,000 acres of Colombian government oil lands. The Colombian law expressly provides that national lands shall not be turned over to companies owned in whole or in part by a foreign government, but this provision is understood to have been evaded and Anglo-Persian appears as the marketing corporation. The concession runs from the Atlantic to the Pacific along the border of Panama.

CONFLICT IN MEXICO
The conflict of British and American interests was at one time pronounced in Mexico, which began to develop as an important oil country in 1910. Lord Cowdray, who founded the Mexican Eagle or Aguila company and later sold it to Royal Dutch and "British Controlled Oil Fields" had to fight for concessions in a war with American interests. Britons have charged that American resentment at the favors shown to Cowdray and Ro-

WHEN YOUR HAND GOES TO YOUR HEART

Difficulty in breathing and heart palpitation are symptoms of high blood pressure, which may cut off life suddenly. Our modern habits of life are responsible, putting too great a strain upon the vital organs, especially the liver.

When the liver becomes "lumpy" or sluggish it fails to cleanse the blood of the toxic poisons formed in food waste. The poisons then permeate the system, affecting stomach, kidneys, heart and blood pressure.

The liver occasionally needs a little help, and there's nothing better for this, as medical men today know, than a little ox gall. Ox gall is a great natural stimulant for the human liver, promoting its normal active functioning, so essential to real health. Dioxol tablets are genuine ox gall in dainty and tasteful form, each tablet representing 10 drops of pure ox gall. A few bring impressive results. To be sure of getting the genuine ox gall, be sure of getting Dioxol. They cost less than 2c each at druggists.

Free Test Take this ad to the druggist named below and he will give you a free sample of Dioxol tablets. Try them yourself. See the splendid, quick results. One trial of Dioxol and you will want a full package!

Summer Styles Will Be Marked By Influence Of Quaint Gay Peasant Modes Of Past Two Centuries

BY JULIA BLANSHARD

NEW YORK — Swanky summer styles are likely to show an influence of peasant France of the 18th and 19th centuries. And an American girl will be partly responsible.

For 200 colorful, decorative, paintings of authentic peasant costumes for different regions of France, brought to this country by their creators, Elizabeth Whitney Moffat, of Denver, Colorado, and Mlle. Gratielle de Gardillanne, of Paris, are proving inspirational to famous couturiers because of the wealth of fascinating, colorful and tricky features they include.

On exhibition now at the Arden Gallery before they become a permanent collection in the Metropolitan Museum of Fine Arts, these paintings see groups scanning them daily, sketch book and pencil in hand, for new ideas for women's apparel. One house copies the lace pattern of a dainty Alsatian apron, one the odd shape of a La Saintonge bonnet, a third a bertha on a Provence bodice.

In Paris many couturiers sent artists to see them. Lanvin is said to have a spring frock with sleeves from one costume. Worth uses the strapings of another; Patou the pockets and gilet of a third.

"The collection represents over two years of research and first hand knowledge of what was actually worn in those days and almost as many more in reproducing them," Miss Moffat testifies.

"But they were fascinating years," she adds. "You see we started out looking up costumes as an avocation and has become a most fascinating vocation now."

Five years ago two young women met in Yvette Guilbert's company in Paris. Miss Moffat went there to play in "Guilbert" from musical comedy on Broadway, including such things as Schubert's "Oh What a Girl!" and "The Hottentot." Mlle. de Gardillanne joined the company as a stage designer.

In producing some peasant folk songs, Yvette Guilbert entrusted to the two the task of providing authentic costumes for the company. It proved such fascinating work that they left the stage to make a regional study of peasant costumes.

"Sometimes we worked in out-of-the-way museums, looking at a bit of shawl through fine glasses to get the exact weave and pattern," Miss Moffat explains their technique. "Then we would hear of a lady who had an old dress in some far corner of the province. So we would hop into our car, take our two bulgows, 'No-No' and 'Bunko' and we would be off to see it."

"Court costumes were preserved but peasant costumes—usually they were handed down from generation to generation or stored in trunks or damp dirt floors and it was almost impossible to find any one article whole. To reconstruct a single costume from the moth-eaten, mildewed and rotted bits of materials we found often took months. For every last detail is important in making such a historical study as we did."

Sometimes peasants assisted them. "Once in a while they had to help themselves, as the time when they picked a lock to open a case that held a valuable bit of lace—just to look at it, of course."

"We undertook the work for historic purposes. It is surprising and gratifying to find that these old costumes, in turn, are the inspiration for new and stunning styles. It is just the same old idea that all life is composed of just so many cycles that keep repeating."

PANTHER IS NEW
GUARD FOR CARS
IN CITY OF PARIS

Paris—(AP)—Life-sized panthers are the newest mascot of Paris motor cars.

Genuine skins are softly stuffed so that the animal looks alive as it lops over the arm of an elegant Parisian, or sprawls on the cushions of her motor car.

The high cost of panther skins is expected to assure the exclusiveness of the mascots for some time.

PRINTED COAT

The printed coat over plain material in the frock is one of Paris' interpretations of the motif. Black shadowed chrysanthemums on white background makes the coat of one white frock.

FLAPPER FANNY
SAYS—

A chap we loathe is Lewis Lang; he always knows the newest song!

How peasant France of the 18th and 19th centuries inspires new styles: A black Sunday dress from La Bourgoigne (left) with its straw fluted collar, lace apron front and silver embroidered tight, short sleeves and long flaring skirt furnishes tricky ideas for styles. At the right are tiered cuffs in royal yellow, red, blue and green and the yoke, revers and pockets inspired Lanvin to create a charmingly similar mode for summer.

SAINT AND SINNER

BY ANNE AUSTIN

Rhoda's China-blue eyes were as wide and eager with surprise as a child's. "Oh, tell me, Nils! But of course anything you have done is right. I don't know anything about business!"

"Good girl!" Nils laughed huskily, as he drew her plump body close to his side. "It's a pleasure to be your guardian. The fact is, honey, I've taken an option on a big dairy farm between here and Darrow—the Sweet-Clover Dairy Company's outfit. You know the place, I suppose. Mr. Hathaway?"

Bob nodded. "Fine property, but the buildings are rather dilapidated. They used to do the biggest business in the state."

"Rhoda squealed with excitement. 'You're selling our farm, Nils? How est? You're going to live here? Oh, Nils! I'm so happy!'

"I thought you'd be pleased," Nils acknowledged. "She always hated our farm," he explained to Faith and Bob. "The girl's face fell. 'You mean—I'll have to leave Mrs. Hathaway?' she faltered."

"I am flattered!" Nils pretended to be more indignant than he was. "What do you think I'm moving to this part of the country for, if not to be with my runaway sister?"

"You're moving here so Cherry will be willing to marry you," Rhoda retorted. "You knew she wouldn't go away off to Minnesota and bury herself on a farm."

"That's where you're wrong, young 'un," Nils was saying to Rhoda. "I've been negotiating for the sale of our place and the purchase of Sweet-Clover Farm since early in September, before I'd met Cherry. But I didn't try to influence her to take me by telling her that in all probability she'd be able to live within twenty miles of her home town and her family. I wanted her to care enough to live anywhere with me," he added stubbornly.

"I must say, Nils," Bob laughed ruefully, "that your courting tactics are fair-to-middling curious, to put it mildly. You seem to be daring Cherry to marry you, rather than asking her."

"Exactly," Nils grinned, but Faith noted that there was a white line of pain about his lips. "By the way, Mr. Hathaway, you are an architect—"

"Not at all 'by the way,'" Bob laughed. "I take myself pretty seriously as an architect."

"I hear you have just cause to," Nils answered gravely. "I've made inquiries. You said a while ago that the Sweet-Clover buildings are rather dilapidated. They're worse than that. I want to wreck the whole outfit and build a model dairy plant there, including a home. I'm going to Holland to study their methods, said to be the best in the world, but while I'm gone I'd like for the buildings to be under construction. I'd rather hoped to combine honeymooning and business," he added humorously.

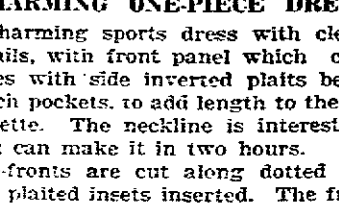

"Holland?" Bob's face lighted with pleasure. "I've got a book full of Dutch architecture. Like to see it? I use the sun parlor as an office for home work and study. Come along. My idea would be to have the house and barns."

"The door into the sun parlor closed on the two blonde young men and Faith closed her eyes to pray as she had never prayed in her life.

BARE LEGS FOR TENNIS EDICT
FOR SPRING

Paris—(AP)—Bare knees and calves are the edict of spring and summer for fashionables who play tennis along the Riviera.

Society is warming up to the idea that tan is smart. One way to get it is to wear just as few clothes for sport as possible—very short sleeves and skirts, no stockings and no hat.

For comfort tennis players wear short wool socks, with colored tops which match their hair bands and handkerchiefs. The socks are often rolled down to the tops of their tennis shoes and frequently colored handkerchiefs, glorified bandanas, are worn like belts, tied around the waist of the dress.

BEAUTY
HOW AND WHY
HOW ELECTROLYSIS
DOES ITS WORK

Ann Alysia

BY ANN ALYSIA

THERE seems to be a great deal of curiosity about the electrolysis method of removing annoying and unwanted hair. This disfigurement is one of the most exasperating that women have to contend with and as the charge for doing the electric work is considerable, many women hesitate to employ it without knowing something about how the current is applied and how it achieves its results.

Though few women know much of mechanics, I think they may be able to visualize the electrolysis appliance if they think of the dentist's chair with its dangling electric drill. The electrolysis chair and apparatus are very similar.

The latest method is to use what is known as multiple electrolysis. The appliance for this is a cross between the dentist's grinding apparatus and the permanent waving machine. Indeed, the multiple hair-removing apparatus, with its dozen or more dangling wires with a needle at the business end of each, looks much like the waving machine in miniature.

The operator inserts the needles so as to contact with the roots of the hair and turns on the electricity. A slight tingling sensation follows. The current is allowed to remain on while the other needles are inserted. When the hair is killed the needle is removed and inserted beside another hair and so on till the work is finished.

ETIQUET HINTS

1. When are silver platters of fruit appropriate centerpieces for a dinner table, and when flowers?
2. Should flowers be placed informally in a low bowl or in high vases.
3. What is the usual table decoration for a formal dinner?

THE ANSWERS

1. For festive occasions like Thanksgiving or Christmas, fruits make a charming table decoration. Most persons prefer flowers for other occasions.
2. It depends on the type of meal served.
3. Formal groupings of flowers, or set centerpieces, with candles in individual holders or candelabra.

And then the water bottle said, "That's all for now," and dropped its head. The poor thing grew real sleepy and it couldn't stay awake. Alas! The stopper then fell out, and water dripped and ran about. 'Twas said to see the bottle slump, and start to queerly shake.

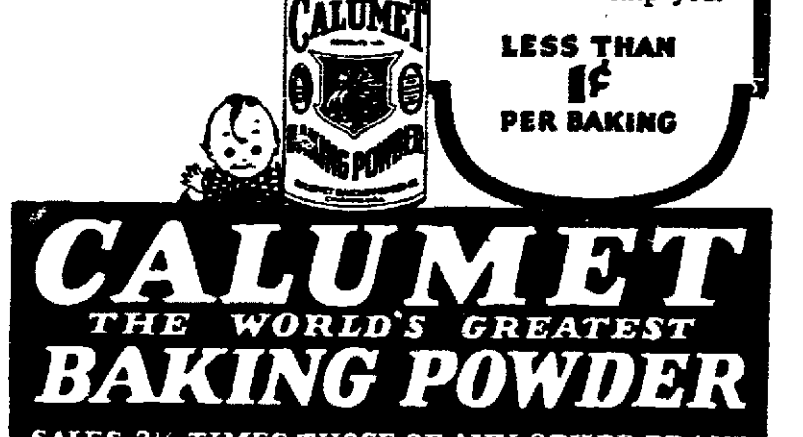

This woke up Clowney, with a start. "Hey, Tines, you had better dart and find a place of safety, or you'll all get wet," he said. So, up they jumped, and laughed to see poor Clowney, wet as he could be. The water, from the water bottle, dripped down on his head.

The time to stop a cold is at the start—all doctors agree—and that is Liquocold's great feature. Within 17 seconds after taking the first teaspoonful this liquid remedy's action begins in the blood—so chemists tell us. In 3 minutes you feel better—you can prove that for yourself.

No waiting (with Liquocold) for a hard tablet to dissolve, which sometimes requires hours and gives the cold microbes more chance to multiply by millions in your nose and throat.

Liquocold "beats them to it," and therefore is the quickest way we know to end a cold if you take it when you first suspect a cold. No "after effort" from Liquocold because it is non-irritant—a balanced formula, used successfully for years (just as it is now) as a prescription by a well-known doctor. No laxative is needed with it. You simply take it as directed and it does all the rest.

Liquocold is guaranteed to do just what we say. If it doesn't, if not satisfactory for any reason, return the empty bottle to the druggist and get your money back.

MAYOR SPEAKS ON FRATERNAL ORDERS

New London Official Says All of Them Go Toward Up-building of Race

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—These three were the subject of a talk given by Mayor E. W. Wendlandt on the evening program following the 520 dinner held at the Masonic temple under the auspices of the Masonic and Eastern Star lodges on Wednesday evening.
The history of all fraternal organizations, generalized the speaker, is one of brotherly love, assistance and upbuilding of the human race. "The aim of each individual is to live in the example of the One who we should all aim to emulate. We are a civilization which stands for the uplifting and betterment of humanity, where classes are gradually disappearing in favor of the masses." The speaker emphasized the fact that the world is a battlefield with the individual as the fighting soldier. The battle is not lost unless the individual weakens in his own fight. "The most vital word in the world today is 'America,' according to Mr. Wendlandt, and this word is an expression of all that is good and all that is kind." Mr. Wendlandt gave the following survey of the Masonic history since its organization in this country. The first meeting was held in the Tavern of the Grapes Boston, in 1773. Preceding the talk, selections were given by the Eastern Star quartette, and the Masonic quartette sang. The committee of Eastern Star members in charge of the dinner included Mesdames Elva Blissett, Eva Dawson, Elizabeth Cooley, Laura Dexter, and Minnie Knoke. Carl Mason acted as chairman of the program.

MODERN BAKERY WILL OPEN AT NEW LONDON

N. Water-st Building Will Be Remodeled to Meet Requirements of New Owner

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—Mrs. Lena Sofia has sold her store building, located on the south side of N. Water-st, to Peter Paters, a baker formerly of Tigerton and Marion, who now resides in Appleton. Mr. Paters will operate a modern bakery, the building to be entirely changed and an addition made in the spring which will bring it up to the requirements of bakery uses. A steel ceiling, store fixtures and bakery equipment also will be added. Frank Schoenrock, Jr., has the work in hand and states that a new brick front with plate glass show windows will replace the frame front and small windows now in place.
The living rooms above the store are to be changed and redecorated and in the spring an addition will be built at the rear of the building. This will probably measure about 30 by 21 feet, with two stories high and cost about $2,000. The total cost of the new building will amount to about $1,500.

Second of Series of Welfare Meetings Will Be Held Feb. 29

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—It is expected that findings in the cases diagnosed at the child welfare clinic held here on February 21 will be disclosed by the doctor in charge of the second clinic, which is to be held on Feb. 29. The screens, erected for the uses of the clinic, are still in place and the New London Civic Improvement league has arranged for new supplies. These affairs are being held in the city hall council room, and those of the welfare board, who worked with mothers and children commented upon the well heated condition of the council rooms. Miss Loretta Rice will again serve with Mrs. Hazel Barton and the clinic will be in charge of Dr. Cora Allen.
Mrs. Rose Deacy, Mrs. William Butler, Mrs. Carrie Archibald Hooper and Mrs. E. C. Jost will again assist the nurses, with three other women to be appointed by the league president. These women, having learned the methods used by the doctor and nurses, will serve until another corps can be taught the work.
It is expected that the next clinic will have a number of new names added to the roster as the first clinic was held during inclement weather. Twenty-eight children were examined on that day.

STAGE And SCREEN

PICTURESQUE MELODRAMA

WITH MOST BEAUTIFUL STAR

Dolores Costello in Warner Bros.

"Old San Francisco" is the attraction

at Fischer's Appleton Theatre showing for the last time today. And "Old

San Francisco" is a thrilling and drama of the colorful days before the "great fire" when the glamorous City of the Golden Gate had a Barbary

Coast, known as "the mule of hell,"

and a Chinatown which burrowed deep in the earth and hid a thousand gruesome secrets.

The story has to do with a Spanish

hellsess who is kidnapped by a half-breed boss of the underworld and offended for sale in a subterranean auction room dim with the fumes of the poppy and garish with teak and sandalwood and gilded dragons. There is a burning story of love and unselfish devotion and the climax, one of the most terrific ever pictured, is the "great fire" which ended the sway of the underworld.

DEEPING'S NOVEL, "DOOMSDAY,"

MADE INTO STEREO-

DRAMA

A virile and beautiful love story

will be told on the screen at Fischer's

Appleton Theatre Saturday and Sunday when Florence Vidor and Gary

Coper make Mary Winer and Arnold

Furze actually live in Paramount's

superb picturization of Warwick

Deeping's novel "Doomsday."

"Doomsday" is a story of strong loves and strong temptations. It portrays in vivid fashion the despair of the girl who faces a continuation of the drudgery that has made life drab and almost terrible to her. It makes one feel with almost painful intensity

the severity of the struggle that a girl undergoes when faced with the alternative of accepting love with work or taking luxury without love.

"FLYING ROMEO"

Rich man, poor man, beggar man,

thief, to say nothing of policeman,

barber, aviator, fireman and soldier.

These are just some of the characters in which Charlie Murray has delighted screen fans with his comedy

antics since First National Pictures

began to feature him.

His latest role is in "Flying

Romeos," in which he shares honors with George Sidney, the other half of First National's popular comedy

team. The "boys" become both barbers and aviators in this unusual comedy, which will be shown at the Elite

Theatre Saturday and Sunday.

"Flying Romeos" was directed by

Mervyn LeRoy and produced for First National Pictures by E. M. Asher.

The supporting cast includes Fritz

CRIPPLED LAWRENCE CAGERS BATTLE RIPPON FIVE HERE

Hoffman, Regular Forward, Lost To Viking Quint For Season With Injured Leg

Jackola to Start Opposite Zeke Remmel in Fight for Third in Midwest Loop

MIDWEST STANDINGS	W. L. Pct.
Carlton	4 1 .571
Coe	4 2 .667
LAWRENCE	4 3 .571
Rippon	4 3 .571
Cornell	4 3 .571
Monmouth	4 3 .571
Beloit	4 3 .571
Hamline	4 3 .571

Hard hit on the eve of the battle with Rippon college, an ancient foe, for third place in the Midwest conference, Coach A. C. Denny hastily re-constructed his lineup Thursday in an effort to find the most effective combination for the Redmen. For Alan Hoffman, regular Viking forward, is in a Milwaukee hospital with blood poisoning resulting from a leg infection, and not only will the blond forward be out of the Rippon game but he will be done for the season. Coach Denny said Friday.

Lawrence, with the suddenly-changed lineup, is expected to have little chance against Rippon, which already has beaten the Blue once this year. He the Vikings will enter the contest Friday evening at Army G. imbued with Denny's fight and make a considerable showing by fight alone. Hoffman was one of the best defensive forwards on the team and a hard worker.

In his place against Rippon, Coach Denny will use Jackola, a sensation of front squad last year, but who was ineligible the entire first semester and because of that has failed to show his best work to date this year. Jackola is one of the speediest men on the team and is usually a good shot, but while he has displayed his speed this year, his "shooting eye" has failed him in the pinches.

As Jackola is another speed merchant, Zeke Remmel of Menasha, will perform and if his eye for the hoop is doing its stuff, especially on free tries he may cause Rippon considerable trouble. Last week against Coe Zeke made seven successive points from the free throw line, all he attempted. At center will be Schneller and at guards will be Denny and Slavic. Slavic now is fully recovered from an illness that kept him in the college infirmary most of last week. He left the hospital Friday and played in a weakened condition Saturday, showing well, though not playing his usual strong game. It seems that just before each important game the Denny crew must suffer by illness or injury this year, when with a green sophomore squad every regular is needed.

In reserve for Jackola's forward berth will be Rasmussen, while Hill-ton will be ready to replace Schneller and St. Mitchell and Voecks, the guards. Rippon's team will center about the shooting eyes of Capt. Cliff Halverson, a lethal scorer of the Midwest loop this year, his brother, and Red Martin, a neat floor man, and a good shot.

CONNIE MACK EXPECTS TYRUS COBB TO SIGN

Philadelphia—(AP)—Connie Mack at Fort Myers, Fla., has received a long letter from Ty Cobb. The Athletics manager said he "wouldn't be surprised" if the Georgian was with the team again this year. "It is possible he may follow me and sign elsewhere," Mack said, "but I really think he is going to be with us again. I don't care how many games he plays, just so he is on the team. I'm sure Ty wants to play ball another season."

Chicago—Al Izzo, Rockford, won from Eddie Ballentine, Chicago (5). Paul Wansley, St. Paul, won from Tommy O'Neil, Cleveland (5).

Montgomery, Ala.—W. L. (Young) Stribling, Macon, Ga., knocked out Joe Clancy, Atlanta (2).

Delaney Confident Of Victory In Heeney Go

BI BOB MATHERNE
NEA Feature Sports Writer
New York—If Tom Heeney fights me the same open way he fought Jack Sharkey, I am bound to get him before the seventh round.

"If I lose to him, it means that I am a failure as far as heavyweight fighting goes."

Those few words, dear readers, are from Jack Delaney, the French-Canadian who fights Heeney in the first of the new heavyweight eliminations in early March. At Madison Square Garden, of course, and for Tex Rickard.

If he wins, Delaney will be matched with the winner of the Sharkey-Risko bout of March 12. If he loses perhaps it will mean failure. He will pass out of the picture at least for the moment.

Knowing he stands at the crossroads of his colorful ring career, Delaney is training in Bridgeport, Conn., away from the crowds of New York which he doesn't especially care for, and working for one great effort to continue in the quest for a title fight with Champion Gene Tunney.

His boxing ability and that six-inch right-hand punch are what he expects will whip Heeney. Twice before that right-hand sock has placed him in position for better things, but after each occasion he was overshadowed by mediocre exhibitions and placed in the category of the greatest "in and out" in the game.

Delaney is much in the same situation he was in before he lost to Aloney several months ago. Three warm-up fights, all of which he won by knockouts, have fitted him well for this coming scrap, and he says there will be no stopping him this time.

FOSTER GETS BIG TEST WITH PURDUE

Badger Sophomore Center Expected to Show Real Metal This Week

The crop of sophomore centers in the Western conference basketball league has been plentiful, and among the best of these new pivot men to spring up this winter is Harold Foster of Wisconsin. This rangy Badger is receiving his most vital test of the season this week for he is facing the 6 foot 7 inches of "Stretch" Murphy, Purdue's high scoring center.

Bad Foster has made a host of friends during his brief service on the Wisconsin team, and all opposition "Doc" Meanwell's winning five these past few months. These Cardinal fans are looking for Foster to surprise the Big Ten in the Purdue series. There are no basketball enthusiasts in Madison who believe that the elongated Badger will win the series as he has done regularly against all opposition.

COMPLIMENTED BY DOC
Coach Meanwell looks upon Bud Foster as the best sophomore center he has ever had. The Chicago boy has been a factor in every one of the Badgers' victories this year. Had he failed in his assignments Wisconsin would not now be fighting for the conference lead.

Foster has been scoring with his best of them, mainly through his work on rebounds. His team-play and passing have made the entire Card offense more effective. His height and jumping ability has given Wisconsin the advantage at the tip-off in most of all her games.

Defensively Bud is a tireless worker. He has held over twenty goals, and this year he is the man to recover the ball in enemy's territory. Foster is not the high scorer that other centers may be. He is not playing on a team that stresses offense and runs up high scores to the neglect of defense. He contributes liberally to both departments of play.

SHOWS STUFF!

BUD FOSTER

Sophomore center of the University of Wisconsin basketball team, called by Doc Meanwell one of the best centers he has ever coached, who is starting the Big Ten with his play this year. He has been a factor in every Badger win this year and had he failed in his work the Cards would not now be fighting for the conference title.

Against Purdue Thursday evening in the first of two games to break a tie for the conference lead, Foster came through as usual, caging six baskets and holding the gigantic 6 foot 7 inch "Stretch" Murphy, who has been the sensation of the loop this year and the one of the big factors in Purdue's win streak, to two baskets and two free tries.

Wisconsin took first place in the loop alone by 28-22.

GLASSY MILERS IN 3-CORNERED EVENT

Hahn, Conger, Peltzer, Leading Runners, Meet in Contest

New York—(AP)—The three-cornered mile race next Wednesday bringing together Lloyd Hahn, Ray Conger and Dr. Otto Peltzer at the Knights of Columbus indoor meet may not be the "mile of the century," as it is enthusiastically billed, but it should add a colorful chapter to the astonishing mile-running book of the current decade.

If the boys are careful about the use of their elbows it also should be one of the fastest mile races ever run indoors, if the present record of 4:12 is not actually broken. It is unfortunate that neither of the joint holders of this record, Joie Ray and Paavo Nurmi, will be on hand to defend it. Ray is back in competition but not up to any top-notch mile performance just yet.

It is interesting to note that four of the greatest milers of all times have been developed since the war. This "Big Four" is headed by peerless Paavo Nurmi. The others are Hahn, Ray and Edwin Wide, the high-stepping Swedish schoolmaster.

Of the milers who flourished 15 and more years ago probably John Paul Jones of Cornell had the best equipment of all to give Nurmi or any of the current Big Four a real battle. Jones, in the opinion of his coach, Jack Moakley, had everything, but he never applied the scientific record-breaking methods that Nurmi and others have employed since Jones hung up the intercollegiate record of 4:14 2-5 in 1913. It still stands.

The American Big Four of mile running in the days before the war included Abel Kivier, Norman Taber and Mel Shepperd as well as Jones but all four of them were beaten in the historic Olympic 1500-meter final of 1912 by the long-striding Englishman, Arnold N. S. Jackson.

LAWRENCE WINTER MEET TO BE HELD SATURDAY

Lawrence college's interclass winter carnival postponed from three weeks ago because of the warm weather, will be held Saturday afternoon at the First ward ice rink, according to A. C. Denny, Viking athletic director. The four classes will compete in several state events and ski jumping contests will be held at Whiting field. Boys and girls of the classes will compete in separate events but points of both will be counted toward the class total. Prizes will be awarded the winners.

Wisconsin Cagers Take First Place In Big Ten By Victory Over Purdue

Bud Foster, Soph. Center, Features as Cards Tounce Rivals, 28 to 22

Chicago—(AP)—Wisconsin roosted supreme in first place in the Western conference basketball standings Friday having above Purdue, the leader all season, down to second place by a 28-22 victory Thursday night.

The two rivals for the peak tangle again at Purdue Saturday night in the other half of the home-and-home series. It will be the third contest of the week for each team.

NEED SATURDAY WINS
A victory Saturday would give Wisconsin a fairly secure leap for conference honors when the curtain goes down a month hence.

Bud Foster was the shining light of the Wisconsin victory, caging six baskets. His rival center on the Purdue team, "Stretch" Murphy, was held to two field goals, and both of them were long-distance tosses. The Badgers system evidently was to force Purdue to take long shots, even if the back guards had to go out of the game on personal fouls, as Doyle, Badger guard, did. It worked, for Purdue made only three short goals out of less than a dozen opportunities.

The only contest on the card Friday night brings together Illinois and Iowa at Urbana to decide possession of seventh place. Saturday night three games wind up the big week of the season. Northwestern plays at Michigan, an important match as Northwestern is in fourth place giving the leaders a hot fight. The Purdue-Wisconsin game and the battle between Ohio and Minnesota complete the Saturday program.

LAWRENCE BOXER HEADS MITT CARD IN VALLEY MEET

Walter Olson, Two-year College Champ, In Windup of Green Bay Battles

THE CARD
Place: Columbus Auditorium, Green Bay.
First bout: 8:30 o'clock.
Judges: Ritchie Mitchell, George F. Downer, Milwaukee.
Referee: To be appointed by state commission Friday.
Wind-up: Olson, Lawrence college vs Ford, Menasha.
Other bouts: Ken Nuss, Green Bay vs Roy Bean, Kaukauna; Tommy Ryan, Oshkosh vs Edith Lipsch, Green Bay; Harvey Nelson, Green Bay vs George Evans, Marinette; Lyman Thomas, Green Bay and Bowler vs Andy Zelenewsky, Milwaukee; South Side Polish A. C. Naparallo, Pulaski vs Hirschman, Denmark; Substitute bouts ready for emergency: Billy Huntermark, Green Bay vs Walter Wolfe, Appleton; Alex Hunter, Lawrence college vs William Liebert, De Pere.

Only one Appleton boxer, Walter Olson, all-campus champion at his weight at Lawrence college for the last two years, will appear on the card of the first annual Fox River Valley amateur boxing championships Friday evening at the Columbus club, Green Bay, but he has been accorded the leading position because of his great record in the ring. Olson will meet Bobby Ford of Menasha, one of the best boys in the Fox river valley, a kid who reminds Pull city fans of Jabber Jung in his palmy days in the windup bout.

Sixteen matches were made by the promoters and six will be used on the card Friday evening with two others used as substitute bouts in case anything happens to any other bout on the card. The rest of the boxers will be given a chance later in the year. No Appleton boys appear in the remainder of the regular bouts, but Roy Bean of Kaukauna clashes with Ken Nuss of Green Bay in one. Two Appleton men, W. C. "Dick" Wolfe and Alex Hunter will be in the substitute bouts ready to replace Wolfe will meet Billy Huntermark, Green Bay, and Hunter, a Lawrence college champion will battle William Liebert, De Pere.

A complete sell-out, arena and balcony, and the likelihood of erecting bleacher sections about the walls is the prospect for the bouts which match the best amateurs in the valley in their respective weights are scheduled with two of fistdom's famous judges presiding. In the curtain raiser two scrappy high school seniors, Naparallo from Pulaski and Hirschman from Denmark, match abilities. In the closing bout Walter Olson, Lawrence college "Swaying Swede" goes to bat against Menasha's "tough nut" Bobby Ford. In 1926 and again in 1927 Olson went through the trial bouts undefeated and in the all-campus finals landed the collegiate championship, lightweight division. The Friday match is Olson's first engagement out of the lightweight class. He has entered the tourney as a junior-welter and drew the "Menasha Mauler" as his opponent. Ford is a baker by trade, and "hard rolls" and "rocks" are among his specialties. He's the Johnny Risto of the Pull city. Punching the dough all day and punching the bag all evening have developed a pair of wrists and a set of arm muscles that will give the college champ something to look out for.

EVENLY MATCHED
The matches were made only with a view of giving each contestant the opponent most nearly his match in weight, experience, size and every other consideration.
Final typewritten orders have been despatched to all of the boxers called for the card, together with instructions. Each man on the card was called to report for inspection and weighing in, at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon at the club building.
"Each match is 'inter city.'" No two boys matched for the opening series of bouts represent the same city. Eight valley cities and villages are represented on the card.

Tickets are on sale throughout the entire valley, and special students tickets at reduced prices were placed on sale in Green Bay, De Pere and Lawrence college, Appleton.
If the way the pastebards have been taken up by prospective patrons in valley cities is any indication of town loyalty for the lads who will bear the brunt of the battle for their

MARQUETTE EASY FOR GLASSY IRISH QUINT

Milwaukee —(AP)— Led by Captain Jachyn, Notre Dame scored an easy 21 to 13 victory over Marquette University in a slow game here Thursday night.
Playing below average form the Marquette five found the Notre Dame defense impenetrable. The South Bend basketball team carried the ball into their opponent's territory throughout the game and scored consistently.
Donovan, Smith and Hamilton figured in the strong Notre Dame offense while O'Donnell starred for Marquette.
A fast advance coupled with smoothly executed plays in enemy territory brought the ball through the Marquette defense time and again.
Its offense seemingly paralyzed before the slow guarding Irish, Marquette resorted to a few long shots. Ruzner and Andrew, both mainstays on the Haltepper squad, were far below their usual form.
The largest crowd of the season saw the game.

POWER CO. ENGINEERS WIN FROM SALES-FIVE

Wisconsin-Michigan Power Co. engineers took two games of a match with the Power Co. sales department Thursday evening at the Elk alleys, winning the match by 43 pins. The engineers opened with a 62-pin win and then added 59 mapsles in the second game for a 121-stick lead. In the final game the salesmen came back, too late, for a 68-pin win.
Bogart of the sales team had high game of the match, a 295, the only 200 game rolled during the fray, and this aided him to high series of 516. For the engineers Bayley and Schaefer tied for high game with a 182 each and the latter had high series of 467.

LAWRENCE SWIMMERS MEET GREEN BAY MEN

Lawrence college's swimming team, coached by Bruce McInnis, former champion diver of the local school, will invade Green Bay Saturday evening for its first dual meet of the year. The Vikings will meet the Green Bay Columbus club team at the club pool, one of the strongest teams of the vicinity.
Members of the Blue team who will accompany Coach McInnis are Franklin LeFlore, Milwaukee, 1928 all-campus swimming champion; Jerry Van Wagoner, Kenosha, third-place winner in the meet; and Outboard Ryan and Mark Catlin, Jr. of Appleton. The meet will be broadcast from radio station WHEB at De Pere. The first tri-state swimming meet ever has been played on the air in this section of the country, according to reports.

JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOLS HERE WIN NATIONAL RECOGNITION

COURSE OF STUDY IN APPLETON SETS PACE FOR COUNTRY

Principals and Teachers Develop Textbooks for Special Use of Junior Schools

Appleton junior high schools have won national recognition through their program of exploration, guidance, and orientation since their establishment in 1925. A philosophy of junior high school exploratory science, applied under the direction of Ben J. Rohan, superintendent of schools, has been used and declared successful by leading educators in the country.

Mr. Rohan was given a substantial increase in salary and a three-year contract by the board of education at its last meeting in recognition of his service since the beginning of his administration. The new salary schedule calls for $5,000 the first year, $5,250 the second year, and $5,500 the third year. This is an average of $5,250 a year for the three years, the average salary paid superintendents of schools in the twenty-three leading cities of the state.

ADOPT NEW SYSTEM
The erection of junior high schools made it necessary to change from the district system of school administration to the modern union system. Under the old system of five districts each district hired its own teachers, ordered its own supplies, used its own system of financial and educational administration. The change to the new system involved the dovetailing of the administration of each school and incorporating them in a central organization. This was one of the problems that confronted the administration three years ago.

Equipment for the three junior high schools was purchased; the McKinley junior high school was built and the old grade building remodeled for junior high school purposes. A course of study had to be worked out. As the junior high school is a comparatively new part of the education system of the country textbooks suitable for their use were few and a great many unsatisfactory. The administration had to have accepted the average curriculum for the junior high school but it wished to give the adolescent child the best advantages.

PREPARE TEXTBOOKS
Principals and teachers of the junior and senior high schools have contributed toward the development of the present junior high school curriculum and have prepared handbooks for use in the courses in exploratory science.

The elementary school emphasizes the tools of knowledge themselves, like reading, arithmetic, and the like. The junior high school uses those tools of knowledge in the making of contacts in enlarging the world, in exploring the fields of activity and learning, in using the abilities, capacities, aptitudes, and the likes of the junior high school student. This constitutes exploration and guidance.

Courses in exploration and orientation are introductory courses which comprise the best approach to each field of knowledge. They tend to give the child a general idea of the subject, postponing the special courses until the senior high school. A general science course bridges the gap between nature subjects of the elementary school and the special science of the senior high school. It is an entire sweep of science that gives the child glimpses into each field.

A course of this type is valuable because it gives the child a "practical" understanding of the world of nature, an appreciation of everyday life and industry, a background of knowledge to select intelligently elective in advanced curricula. It offers the student "long vistas" and foresight rather than short views; it calls for thinking, reasoning, decision.

STORY OF FOOD SUPPLY
A. C. Osterhoudt, principal of Roosevelt junior high school in his story of Our Food Supply aids the child in learning about the subject of agriculture and discusses some of the important points usually studied in this subject. The object is to give the student a bird's-eye view of one of the most significant of the fields of activity.

A number of people engaged in this line of work, the characteristics and qualifications of the workers, the remuneration and rewards of the service, the opportunities in the field, the advantages and disadvantages of this line of activity, the many problems which confront the workers, together with some of the ways suggested for the improvement of conditions are some of the phases emphasized.

Our Forests, a National Problem, by Mr. Rohan constitutes another of the fields of exploratory science of tered the junior high school student. That the welfare of a nation is affected by the lack of forests in many more ways than in the shortage of wood is pointed out by Mr. Rohan. He shows that it would mean undesirable changes in climate, stream-flow and erosion, marked decrease in game, fish, and other forms of wild life, and far less opportunity for healthy outdoor recreation. Industrial activity would be decreased by the lack of forests, communities impoverished, standards of living lowered, and social and economic losses increased.

Plant and Animal Neighbors developed by F. B. Younger giving the student a general sweep of his biological environment, is another field of learning. It may be considered from the standpoint of the bacteriologist, the landscape gardener, the botanist, the entomologist, and others. A love of the out-of-doors is created and an insight given into some of the life processes of familiar plant and animal neighbors.

Another course which has been offered in the curriculum of the junior high school is one which is perhaps an orientation course as well as an exploratory one, a presentation of an introduction to physics. The handbook used is called Keeping Warm and was compiled by Werner Witte and F. Younger.

Health and comfort are considered as related to the temperature, ventilation, and humidity of the air, early methods of heating are sketched to give the student the background for the study of heat. Applying this theory to practical use, the hot air, hot water, and steam furnaces are studied. The system used in the heating of the school building is also considered and trips made through the heating plant.

GUIDEBOOK IN ART
Miss Dorothy Krippner, supervisor of art, has prepared a guidebook to be used in the art courses in the junior high schools. The student learns that art is a means of beautiful expression, that its aim is to make the world a better and more beautiful place in which to live. Art is considered in its relation to advertising, costume, jewelry, printing, publishing, turniture, wall paper, textiles, architecture and the decoration of interiors.

Appreciation of the stars is taught as an introductory course in astronomy. Work in this field was developed by Miss Irma Roemer, who prepared a handbook entitled Our Earth and Its Neighbors. The study of the stars is as valuable an education as traveling; the student learns about the universe in which he lives and in which the earth lays so small a part. The practical value of astronomy is especially considered. Safe navigation of the seas is directly dependent upon astronomy and geographical positions are located by the observation of the heavenly bodies. Time is a significant fact to everything and time is determined by observing the stars.

Astronomy is an important factor in regard to other science. Mathematics such as trigonometry and calculus were suggested by astronomical problems, and mathematics is necessary for all science. Geography, meteorology, geology, and chemistry are closely connected with the study of the stars. The main interest of the junior high school course, however, is the cultural angle.

A course in junior nursing has been prepared by Miss Grace Williamson, Miss Mabelle Watkins, Miss Vivian Morrow, Miss Fern Taylor, Miss Lona Draheim and set forth in a book called The Junior Nurse.

The student learns how to keep well, the history of nursing, and is given a background of practical nursing. Routine in the sick room, what a medicine chest should contain, and first aid information are some of the things the child learns.

Chemistry presented as a man's servant in the exploratory science series by Francis E. Collier opens another great field of activity and learning. The child is first given a background

HEALTH AUTHORITIES NOT WORRIED ABOUT SMALL POX OUTBREAK

Appleton health authorities are not worrying about the small pox outbreak in the county or at Green Bay, according to statements Thursday morning. They point out there have been a few cases in the city during the winter and that three years ago all school children were vaccinated. Precautions will be taken, however, to prevent spread of the epidemic to this section.

For the study by the history of chemistry, beginning with the ancient Egyptians and Greeks and continuing through the modern chemistry. The future of and the opportunities in the field of chemistry are considered which give the student glimpses into the special side-lines of the vocation.

Paper-making, artificial silk making, protection of the city water supply, relation of chemistry to clothing, human life and health, chemical and other scientific development since 1923 are some of the practical phases considered in the course.

The aims and purpose of Appleton high school have been set forth in a handbook by H. H. Helble, principal. Help is given the students to form habits of thought and work that will be beneficial and worth while to themselves and others. They are given a mastery of fundamental processes of education. Vocational guidance is given each individual along the line of his interest and abilities, which is assumedly the continuance of the exploratory idea in an advanced degree.

Students of the senior high school are trained to be intelligent, active, and good citizens of the community. They are directed in making worthy use of leisure and assisted in developing ethical character.

KREISLER FEATURES CENTURY OLD MUSIC

Noted Violinist to Play Here in March, Leader in Enlarged Repertoire

The enlargement of the repertoire of modern violinists is due entirely to Fritz Kreisler, famous violinist who will play March 6 at Lawrence Memorial chapel.

For years violinists had been going along content to play the hackneyed works of modern violin composition, forgetting or ignoring the wonderful literature that Italy produced in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries. Because Kreisler has sought out and revived this type of composition, his programs cover a broader field than those of any artist now before the public.

When Kreisler came to this country as a prodigy at the age of 14 years, he had the usual success which is the lot of an attractive boy with talent, but the wise heads all maintained that he was being "burnt out" and would amount to nothing.

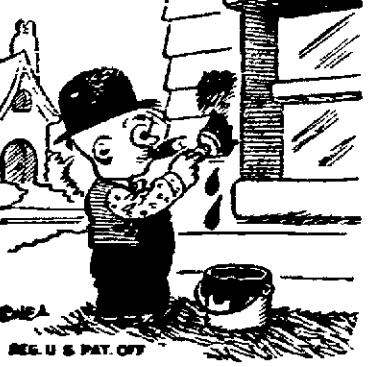

Twelve years later he returned to America and before he had given his first performance in New York, his coming was received with the same scepticism. After his appearance in concert in New York, it was quickly discovered that the wonderful boy had become a great artist.

Up to the time of the war, Kreisler was one of the few violinists who, under any condition, could fill the largest halls of London, Paris, Petrograd, and Vienna. His hold on the musical public of Europe was unique.

Who Murdered Margaret Odell?

SHE had quitted the "Follies" at the close of the season, and during her subsequent spectacular career in the haunts of Broadway's night life she had been popularly and familiarly called the "Canary." Thus it happened that when her body was found, brutally strangled, in her apartment, the crime immediately became known as the "Canary" murder.

It was the most amazing crime in New York's police history: this murder of the beautiful, gay butterfly creature from the night clubs. It seemed impossible that Margaret Odell could have been murdered: yet the fact that she had been was inescapable.

THE "CANARY" MURDER CASE, the greatest detective story in a lifetime, starts Saturday, February 25, in The Appleton Post-Crescent. Don't miss a single thrilling installment.

White House Conferences
Not What They Used To Be

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington — The White House press conferences of the near future, if one may judge by events of the last year, will find the Washington correspondents led into a dark room to listen to a voice on the other side of a black velvet curtain reinforced by a barbed wire fence.

What some correspondents are pleased to call the degeneracy of these conferences has progressed rapidly. It has even been suggested that they be called off altogether, but that won't happen because they are still valuable both to the president and the correspondents. Meanwhile, there are several schools of thought, including that which holds that a president is entitled to all the protection he can get from the consequences of such statements as he makes to the correspondents.

The practice of quoting presidents stopped abruptly after Harding made a bad bull in talking about the arms conference. When Coolidge came in, the correspondents were being received twice a week. They submitted questions in writing and the president answered or commented on such as he pleased.

Correspondents often referred to the "White House Spokesman" as the man who gave the answers. The "Spokesman" gradually became a public joke, whereupon the president ordered that use of the term be omitted. Then the correspondents got together one day and submitted many copies of the question whether Mr. Coolidge would stand for renomination. After they had written about his refusal to answer, he insisted that in the future no reference should be made to questions submitted and ignored.

The last restriction placed on the boys followed Mr. Coolidge's slip of the tongue in referring to Candidate Hoover as "President." The incident was published widely and it was soon afterward ordered that in the future no references whatever should be made to the White House press conferences; that the gatherings were to

to the question of what was the matter with Congress.

"My point," he says, "was that congressmen were as good as their constituents would permit them to be; that their wickedness was forced upon them as the price of re-election and that whatever of virtue they had was despite their constituents. The real trouble with congressmen is that they need better constituents. This point I should have made more clear. It should be qualified by an exposition of the fact that constituents do not speak per capita, but on an ad valorem basis and that although the average is quite clear in a recent reply to the question of what was the matter with Congress."

The senate has passed a bill awarding $500 to a citizen of the Dominican Republic, whose son was killed unnecessarily by a U. S. machine. Marines were stationed in that country for reasons not explained to the senate. The boy was about 15 years old. According to Senator Bland, the machine was ordered to shoot a runaway. The boy came up and stood in the rubble. The machine fired and killed him. The machine shot him in the back and the boy was killed. The grace and without regard to the label $500 was ordered paid "as an act of pity" for the boy's death.

PREVENTIVES NEEDED AGAINST TOOTH DECAY

New York—Tooth decay has become such a scourge that dentistry should turn its attention to means of preventing this "most prevalent of all human diseases," says Dr. Alfred Walker, clinical professor of pulp canal therapy in the New York University college of dentistry.

"While great strides have been made in restorative dentistry, little has been discovered in the way of preventive measures," Dr. Walker asserts. "It is well established that unhealthy conditions in the mouth may and do induce serious bodily diseases."

"A serious problem confronts the dental profession. The race is so afflicted with this scourge of tooth decay that if dentists were to devote all of their time to filling cavities in teeth they could not begin to cope with the situation. The only hope is in finding a means for prevention."

More and more people in our city insist on ENZO JEL, for it is decidedly better.

PROUD WISCONSIN

Milwaukee—Pure food laws and efficient check of contagious diseases are held to be the two outstanding contributing factors in making Wisconsin the healthiest state in the Union. Health commissioners of the state and city of Milwaukee are cooperating in plans to hold the longest average human life span safe for Wisconsin. They intend to better the record average of 59 years given in an official report of the United States health service.

IT'S FRESH

Enter the "Kept-fresh by McLaughlin" Coffee Service —Exit Stale Coffee

Why not stop buying coffee by the old haphazard method of ordering off the shelf? Such coffee is likely to be stale and unsatisfactory because it stands too long before you buy it.

The new "Kept-fresh by McLaughlin" Service offers you fresh coffee, roasted and shipped the day your grocer's order is received. Look for the red metal cabinet on the grocer's counter. Note that "Kept-fresh" Coffee is ground only upon your order — actually kept fresh until used.

A pound of "Kept-fresh by McLaughlin" Coffee ordered today will prove a revelation and a pleasure to you. Try it!

"99 1/2", a popular "Kept-fresh" blend, sells for 47c a pound. Expensive packing is omitted — a saving to you.

Herring

Herring packing is one of the great industries on the east coast of England. The enormous number of barrels used may be estimated from this view taken at Yarmouth during the herring season. Many girls are employed in the herring industry. They follow the herrings down the coast of England and work a week or two at a number of ports. 2-9

Huge quantities of herrings are pickled. The picture shows girls sorting and preparing herrings for pickling.

Here the herrings are being washed before being sent to London and other great cities. Girls do the packing, too. 2-9

These men are examining a catch of sprats. Sprats are caught in drift nets. The nets have pieces of cork along the top to keep them afloat. One end of the net is fastened to the boat and the fish are caught in the net's meshes. Sprats are placed in boxes and shipped. Sketches and Synopses, Copyright, 1928, The Gifford Society. (To Be Continued) 2-9

TOWNSCITY WORKMEN KEEP STREETS OPEN AFTER
HEAVIEST SNOWFALLBusses and Street Cars Operate on Schedule—Cars
Stalled in Drifts

Kaukauna—Early Thursday morning a large force of men started clearing the snow from the principal thoroughfares of the city. Thomas Reardon, north side street commissioner, reported he had a force of 28 men working for him and nearly as many were being used by Joseph Kuehn on the south side.

The city snow plow cleared the main business streets first and then went into the residential section. A number of sleighs were used for hauling the snow to vacant lots. By evening most of the important streets had been plowed and traffic about the city was moving in a normal manner. Sidewalks were plowed during the storm Wednesday afternoon and again Thursday morning.

Busses were operating nearly on schedule and the interurban cars were only a few minutes late. Early Thursday morning the Green Bay line got its snow plow through and regular service was maintained.

Snow plows belonging to the Wisconsin-Michigan Power Co., the county and the Northern Transportation Co. of Green Bay kept the highway between Kaukauna and Appleton open while the transportation plows worked all the way to Green Bay.

Garages in the city reported a large number of cars stalled in the snow banks along the highway Thursday morning and the derricks were kept busy towing them in to the city.

KAWS HAVE ANOTHER
CHANGE TO WIN GAMEOconto Falls Will Furnish Opposition on Their Floor Friday Evening

Kaukauna—Coach Harry McAndrew's Orange and Black basketball team will have an opportunity to break into the win column of the Northeastern Wisconsin Interscholastic conference by defeating Oconto Falls at that city on Friday evening. The northerners have only been able to win one game in the loop while they dropped five. Although a win will not take the Kaws out of the conference cellar it would be their first win of the season. So far the team has lost eight conference and two non-conference games.

Against West Green Bay on Wednesday evening the Kaws showed good floor work and should put up a good fight against the Lumberjacks. The team has been rated as one of the fastest in the "Little Five" but a poor play for the basket has kept it in the cellar.

Only four more games remain on the local schedule including the Oconto Falls game. On Tuesday of next week the Orange and Black meets Appleton on the Crescent city court and on Friday of the same week the last home game will be played at Kaukauna when Two Rivers invades the city. The following week the Kaws will travel to Clintonville.

Those who made the trip to Oconto Falls were: Captain Myron Ester, Karl Farwell, Willis Miller, Ralph Sager, Marvin Miller, Richard Ferguson, Richard Landreman, Lloyd Derus and Harvey Doering.

CHAIRMEN REPORT ON
SUCCESS OF WINTER FAIR

Kaukauna—The next meeting of the Kaukauna Advancement association will be held Wednesday evening in the municipal building. Committees in charge of the Mid-winter fair will report on their departments. Dinner will be served at 6:30. The committee in charge of the meeting consists of M. Bayoregon for the dinner, Dale Andrews for arrangements and A. Nichols for tickets.

INVITE PUBLIC TO HEAR
AUBREY WILLIAMS' TALK

Kaukauna—Aubrey Williams' secretary of the Wisconsin conference of school work, will speak at the Knights of Columbus club rooms at 5 o'clock Monday evening. Mr. Williams has been invited to this city to speak on child welfare by the Kaukauna council. His subject will be "The Children's Code and the public is invited to hear him."

ZWICK ARRANGING FOR

BUCHANAN FARMER SAYS
VISITOR STOLE HIS CAR

Kaukauna—Charles Weidenhaupf of the town of Buchanan, reported to the local police department Thursday that a Ford coupe was stolen from his farm about 3 o'clock Sunday morning. A man who had visited the farm earlier was accused and Chief R. H. McCarty sent Mr. Weidenhaupf to the district attorney at Appleton to have a warrant issued for his arrest. Mr. Weidenhaupf said he delayed reporting the theft because he thought the man could be made to return the car without notifying the police.

SEEK LEADER FOR NEW SCOUT TROOPTroop 20 is Thoroughly Organized and Boys Are Making Progress in Work

Kaukauna—H. C. Ransley, scoutmaster of troop No. 20 of this city has issued a call for a public spirited citizen to take charge of another scout troop. Fifteen boys have registered for the troop and are awaiting a leader to take charge.

The organization of troop No. 20 has been completed. There are 32 registered scouts in the troop all of whom were tenderfoots two months ago. Now 18 of them are second class scouts, 2 are first class, 1 is a star scout and 1 is a life scout. The life scout will be made an eagle at the next meeting of the court of honor.

Carl Swedberg has been appointed assistant scoutmaster and will receive his commission from regional headquarters within the next week. The troop committee consists of P. R. Maginnis, first aid; Carl Swedberg, compass and signaling; Olin G. Dryer, drill.

Troop No. 20 will hold a party for its members at the scout headquarters in Park school on Friday evening. There will be stunts and games. On Saturday morning the troop will hike to a nearby woods where the scouts will be tested in their ability to hold a fire. It will be a second class test and each scout will be given 2 matches with which to build a fire to fry a quarter pound of meat and bake two potatoes.

The Kaukauna public library has announced that it has 13 pamphlets on merit badge work and the scouts have been invited to visit the library and look over the scouting material.

Social Items

Kaukauna—Odele chapter of the I.O.O.F. will hold its regular semi-monthly meeting on Friday evening in the Masonic hall. Routine business will be transacted.

ROTARIANS OBSERVE
WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY

Kaukauna—George Washington's birthday was observed at the weekly luncheon in the Kaukauna Rotary club held Wednesday noon in the Legion building. Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Cooke of this city gave short talks on the life of the first president.

KAUKAUNA PERSONALS
Kaukauna—William Van Lieshout is at Milwaukee on a business trip. John Jansen spent Thursday evening at Neenah with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Hantschel of Wisconsin Rapids are visiting friends in Kaukauna.

Harry Marvis of Fond du Lac spent Thursday in Kaukauna on business.

Miss Leona Biel of Two Rivers was a Kaukauna caller Thursday.

CICERO CARD PARTY
PROVES BIG SUCCESS

Special to Post-Crescent
Cicero—A card party was held Tuesday evening at the State graded school and proceeds amounting to $9.50 went toward the installation of electric lights. Schafkopf and smeer were played. Prizes at schafkopf were awarded to Robert Mueller, Henry Marks and Mrs. Evelyn Mueller, and at smeer to Harold Kospeke, Mrs. Viola Ohm, and Miss Irene Eummeister.

The Misses Marjorie Walker and Mabel Snell are teachers at the school.

Kaukauna Vocational school P. W. Pentzen of the Neenan plant of the Kimberly-Clark co. will lead the discussion of Preparation of Paper.

Last Tuesday an interesting session was held with R. M. Radach, superintendent of the Tullyman Sulphate mill of this city, in charge.

A Washington's birthday dinner and program were given in the parlors of the Presbyterian church Wednesday evening and was attended by about one hundred and fifty persons. Dinner was served by the members of the Woman's Service Guild. District Attorney Frederick Adelscher acted as toastmaster, and the Rev. Luther Harwood and G. M. Morrissey responded to toasts. Songs were sung by a quartet from the church choir.

G. Raymond Holdridge visited in Oshkosh on Wednesday.

ABBOTT THINKS AUTHOR HAS BETTER OF ACTOR

Palm Beach, Fla.—(AP)—George Abbott, actor, playwright and director, says he gets more satisfaction out of writing a good play than he does in acting a fine part.

"Once the author has had his play produced, he loses interest in it," he elaborates. "But then a playwright can shut his eyes to the current Broadway production, pick up his pen and write another play, whereas the actor weary of his lines, must keep on with his part."

Interest and enthusiasm for a role does a slow death within a year, he believes. As collaborator in "Broadway" "Coquette," "Four Walls," and other successes, Abbott declares the trend of the American theater is toward truthfulness. The cause of many failures on the stage, he believes, may be traced to the door of an untenable premise.

The United States, in his opinion, has the best actors in the world—"and by far the best comedians."

RADIATOR FOR MAIN-LAW
Detroit—Automobile salesmen, recently returned from Japan, have started another mother-in-law story here. They say that rumble seats are also there so far as mother-in-law is concerned. Sons of Japan, because of the customs to rever to their ancestors, have built a special seat for "mums" atop the radiator.

EIGHT CHURCHES ENTERTAIN AT DAD AND SON BANQUETS

Interesting Programs for Meetings Preceding Boy Officers' Inaugural

Eight Appleton churches will hold Father and Son banquets Friday evening after which persons attending will go to Lawrence Memorial chapel for inauguration of boy city officials.

Dr. George Hunt of the Madison Christ Presbyterian church, will address the gathering at the Memorial Presbyterian church at 6:15 in the evening.

A varied program has been planned for the banquet at 6:35 Friday evening at First Methodist Episcopal church. A. C. Remley will be toastmaster, and George Nixon will lead the singing. Addresses will be given by a "dad," F. E. Wheeler, and by a "son," Mike Gochmayer. The McMahons quintet, made up of Mr. McMahon and his four sons will sing several selections. Earl McKee will give a musical comedy.

My Son will be the topic which George E. Johnson will discuss at the Father and Son banquet at Trinity English Lutheran church at 6:30 Friday evening. The dinner will be sponsored by the Brotherhood and served by the Women's Missionary society. My Father will be the theme of a talk by Daniel Hopkinson, and Emery Greunke will be toastmaster. A male quartet composed of William Daniel, Marvin Garfield, G. W. Collip and C. O. Collip will sing several selections.

The Rev. J. F. Nienstedt will give the address at the Father and Son Banquet at Emmanuel evangelical church at 6:30 Friday evening. A corner solo by Raymond Saiberlich, and a saxophone solo by Wilmer Grimmer, will be played, and a quartet composed of George Brettrick, Forrest Jabus, Arthur Erdman and Irving Saiberlich will sing. The Fohn Mandolin orchestra will play selections.

T. E. Orblison will address the meeting at the Congregational church Friday evening, on behalf of the fathers attending the Father and Son banquet. Carlton Roth will speak in behalf of the sons. C. C. Nelson will be toastmaster.

A Father and Son banquet will be held at St. Johns church at 7 o'clock Friday evening. Speeches by fathers and sons will be given.

The fathers and sons of the Baptist church will attend a banquet at the church on Friday evening, after which the party attending will go to Lawrence chapel for the program.

CLEAN AWAY SNOW IN BUSINESS DISTRICT

Street department crews resumed work removing snow from College avenue Friday morning. The big loader and several trucks being centered on the one job. At noon Friday most of the business section was free from snow drifts and the men working toward the west end of the city. Traction company employees removed snow on Oneida at interurban stops that automobiles might pass between the cars and the sidewalk. Aside from removing snow on College avenue, street department employees plowed paths in several sections of the city which were almost isolated because of high drifts.

EGG PRICES DROP TO LOWEST LEVEL OF WINTER

The present market price of eggs in Appleton is the lowest it has been during the winter. The buying price ranges from 25 to 28 cents a dozen in the local markets, and the retail price of selected firsts from 31 to 36 cents a dozen. Although this is the lowest quotation on eggs this winter, the price last year at this time was approximately the same.

Since fresh eggs were available about Jan. 1, there has been no demand for storage eggs, and no prices are quoted.

HOOVER IN FAVOR OF FLOOD CONTROL

men showed intense interest. The Ohioan asked the secretary whether he adhered to a general plan of flood control legislation by congress with the details left to a commission or whether congress should adopt a definite plan. "My own feeling runs in the direction of the adoption of the major items, a flood way and the strengthening of levees," Hoover replied. "It seems to me that will be the more constructive plan. But again that is a matter of the war department must advise you."

Advertising to the secretary's suggestion of a commission to advise congress, Wilks asked whether it was the plan to have this commission study details of construction or only the financial and economic side of the problem. "Senator," the president suggested, "that commission," Hoover replied, "The flood plan is an engineering problem, the financing is an economic problem and I take that the commission would study the financial and economic side."

"Do you want to express an opinion between the Jadin plan and the Mississippi river commission plan?" the Ohioan went on.

"No," Senator Flint not competent to do that."

Again Senator Hawes took the questioning, insisting on an answer as to the diversion of costs of the engineering work.

"I have endeavored to make it clear to you," Hoover said, "that that whole problem requires a lot more study than it has received."

That ended the questioning and Chairman Jones thanked the secretary for responding to the committee's invitation to appear.

"The committee will meet next Monday to begin drafting a bill," Senator Jones announced.

549 WAR VETERANS SIGNED WITH LEGION

Hope to Reach Last Year's Record Enrollment of 602 by End of Month

Oney Johnston post of the American Legion has re-enrolled 549 of last year's 602 members it was stated at a meeting of the executive committee of the organization Thursday evening at the Y. M. C. A. Efforts will be made to go over the 1927 registration before the close of the present campaign, Feb. 28.

Resignations of two legionnaires from offices in the post, because of entrance into politics, were accepted by the committee. A. H. Bunks resigned as third vice commander of the post and Harvey Priebe as member of the Outagamie council. The men will run for nomination as aldermen from Third ward, Fifth wards, respectively. No member of the legion in politics can hold office in a legion post. The state legion bowling tournament and plans for Poppy day next spring also were discussed.

HOOVER, JADWIN ASK FLOOD HELP

Engineering Chief Wants Department of State to Contribute

Washington —(AP)—Control was the feature on the congressional stage Friday with Secretary Hoover and Major General Jadwin playing the leading roles.

The commerce secretary, in a senate committee room crowded with spectators, said he was daily bound to support his administration colleagues in plans for controlling the great Mississippi and that it would be catastrophic if Congress failed to pass any legislation along this line at this session.

In the house Gen. Jadwin, chief of army engineers, presented a draft of a new flood bill providing for department of state contributions toward the relief cost, where states were unable to meet the charges.

Heflin of Alabama, and Walsh of Massachusetts, Democrats, engaged in a brief political tiff on the senate floor. The former retorted to a speech by Governor Fuller, Republican, Massachusetts, in which he said Governor Smith was boosted for the Democratic nomination and said the answer could be found that Mr. Fuller was a Roman Catholic. Walsh defended Fuller in saying he was an "able, progressive, courageous and independent" executive.

Mrs. Edith Nourse Rogers, Republican, Massachusetts, champion of the war veteran, attacked the house naval committee's action in cutting from 71 to 16 the new warships proposed by the administration.

Committee activity resulted in an agreement by the senate irrigation committee to vote next Wednesday on the Boulder Canyon dam bill and a decision by the house agriculture committee to close hearings Saturday on farm relief.

YOUTHFUL PUPILS TELL OF BOMBING

Children Describe Blast That Nearly Killed Their Teacher

Ottawa, Ill. —(AP)—Two little girls, their high-pitched voices shaking with excitement, told the story Friday of the explosion that wrecked their schoolhouse last December and nearly killed their teacher, Iola Bradford.

Helen Reed, the young man, charged with putting dynamite in the stove in an effort to rid himself of the teacher, his sweetheart and her unborn child, glared at the children. Miss Bradford, smiled sweetly at her former pupils.

Ten-year-old Grace Johnson told of that eventful morning. The child was the only pupil in the room when the dynamite exploded.

"I saw Miss Bradford near the stove when I went in," she said. "Then I heard a loud noise and I don't remember what happened until I found myself out on the road."

Teacher was screaming. There was blood all over her face and her dress. My leg was hurt by a piece of iron and there was glass down my neck.

"I went to grandmother's and then back to school. There was blood on the floor near the stove and out on the porch. Pieces of iron were in the wall and piano."

Grace's chum, ten-year-old Vera Kane, said she went out to play. Vera, destined she had hardly got outside when a big explosion shook the building. She heard her teacher scream and saw her staggering out, covered with blood.

WON'T ENFORCE PARKING ORDINANCE HERE NOW

Although the city of Appleton now has an ordinance which prohibits parking on College avenue longer than 30 minutes, no attempt will be made to enforce the law for the present. It is believed by city hall officials that there is no need to enforce the ordinance now and no action will be taken until spring when the parking problem becomes acute.

Markets

STRONG UNDERTONE IN STOCK PRICES

Drop of $90,000,000 in Broker Loans Brings Buying Orders

New York —(AP)—Stock prices displayed a strong undertone at the opening of today's market. The unduly large drop of more than $90,000,000 in broker loans brought a flood of buying orders to the market. Initial gains of a point or more were recorded by General Motors, DuPont and Hindustan. Southern Railway preferred, Vandalia Steel and New Haven. The crowd of selling orders invading the market did not blow itself out until United States Steel was driven down to 12 1/2. International Nickel, United States Rubber, 49 1/2, and United States Steel, 49 1/2, were preferred to 32 1/2. Porto Tobacco, 6 1/2, and the Chicago & North Western, 10 1/2, were preferred to 10 1/2. The large drop in the market was the result of a sharp drop in the price of bonds. The price of bonds was 10 1/2.

REWARD PUPILS FOR EFFORTS IN SCHOOL

Award Medals to Roosevelt School Pupils for Good Work in First Semester

Awards for the work done by pupils of Roosevelt junior high school for the first semester were made Wednesday afternoon during assembly period. The stimulation of pupils to worth-while endeavors leading toward better health, better scholarship, better citizenship, better use of leisure time and to give recognition for achievements in those fields are the objects for the award system.

Any pupil who for one semester meets all general requirements and qualifies in one major requirement is eligible for a bronze award in his major which might be in scholarship, athletics, music, citizenship or special service. If he can qualify in two majors in one semester he is eligible for a silver award; if he qualifies in three majors he is eligible for a gold award.

Pupils who fail to repeat their records the following semester must give up their award. Awards held by pupils when they graduate become their permanent property.

To obtain an award in scholarship the pupil must receive a majority of A's and no less than one full C. For an athletic award he must play for at least three-fourths of the total season in football or basketball games or take a first place in the interscholastic track meet.

In music he must show unusual ability in orchestra, drum and bugle corps, or in the boys and girls glee club, or by doing distinguished work in vocal or instrumental music in order to obtain the music award. For the citizenship award the pupils must obtain a scholarship average of B and must receive an A in citizenship in every class. Special service awards call for the pupil doing outstanding work on the school paper, on the student council, and the like.

Those obtaining bronze medals in citizenship were Catherine Abbey, Helen Cohen, Raymond Horvath, Millicent Nohr, Marie Radtke, Jean Steffen, Lenera Trautner, Elizabeth J. Watson, Janet Watson, Marcella Buesing, Helen Ingold, Beatrice Roloff, Blanche Christensen, in music, Irving Cameron, Madeline Westphal, Caroline Bochen, Margaret Horton, Charles Huesman, Dorothy Krueger, Anna Sieg, in special service, Norman Clapp, Donald Duffy, Wilhelmine Meyer, Herbert Schmidt, Amy Solie, Charles Wilkner, in athletics, Rudolph Vogt, Cyril Schneider, Clement Schmiede, Frank Manier.

Silver medals were won by Vernon Beckman, Mary Remick, Ellen Ballew, Anna Bergacker, Thelma Nohr, Bernice Steffen, Katherine Watson. Gold medals were given to Walter Wright, Anita Cast, Gordon Holterman, Frederick Jahncke, Donald Mueller, Ann Russell, Stanley Zahrt.

BUILDING OF BRIDGE PROGRESSES RAPIDLY

Hope to Start Foundation of Little Chute Structure Next Week

The heavy snowstorm Tuesday and Wednesday has not hampered work on the new bridge across the Fox river canal at Little Chute.

About 20 men were engaged Wednesday in tearing out the foundations of the old bridge, which has been moved to the west to provide a temporary crossing place for pedestrians. Simpson-Parker Construction company of Appleton has the contract to install the new bridge for approximately $49,000.

The new structure will be located between two locks. When work first started it had been planned to construct a coffer dam above the lower lock so water could be pumped out and foundations for the new structure installed below the water line. Under a new plan, water is being drained from the space between the two locks by the use of siphons.

It is expected the old foundation will be torn out by the end of this week and construction of the new foundation started next week. The bridge must be completed by May so it will not interfere with navigation.

Baby Cuts 10 Teeth Without Trouble

Mrs. John Ruthfus, Glenview, Neb., was worried. Her baby was having such a hard time teething. He cried all the time. She was frantic. She knew that fever, colic, convulsions or worse might result. Some mothers induced her to use Dr. Pusk's Teething Relief. Absolutely harmless because it's homeopathic—that has been used for over 40 years. Let her tell about the difference it made.

"My little boy, 11 months of age," she writes, "has had 10 more teeth and has had no trouble cutting them all since I have been giving him Teething Relief."

Don't let your baby suffer or keep you awake another night! For both baby's sake and your own, get a bottle of Teething Relief from your druggist. It costs only 75c.

EXAMINER HEARS 3 COMPENSATION CASES

One Case Settled Out of Court and No One Appears to Testify in Another

Testimony in three cases under the Workmen's Compensation act was taken by A. T. Flint, examiner of the Wisconsin Industrial commission, at a hearing at the courthouse Thursday. One of the cases scheduled for hearing was settled out of court and principals in another case failed to appear.

A settlement was reached in the suit for damages brought by Arthur J. Kappell, Kaukauna, as the result of an injury he received in an explosion while working for Anton Mankowsky. Kappell was assisting in dynamiting and was injured while examining a cap that failed to explode.

E. Schafelke asked permanent compensation from the Langlade Lumber company as the result of a broken leg. Nels Paulsen asked compensation because of an injury sustained when chemicals got into his eye. Peter Bernot asked compensation for a fractured skull received when he

OUTLINE CAMPAIGN FOR 9TH DISTRICT DELEGATES

Samuel Sigman, secretary of the Outagamie county Progressive league returned Thursday night from Washington, D. C., where he conferred with Congressman George J. Schneider and Herman L. Ekern, former attorney-general. Mr. Ekern is chairman of the Progressive organization in Wisconsin and is in charge of the state campaign for the election of presidential delegates. Ekern, Schneider and Sigman discussed plans for the campaign in the ninth Wisconsin district, of which Appleton is part. Mr. Sigman also visited with Senators Robert M. LaFollette and John J. Blaine.

was struck on the head by a flying block of wood while at work for the Patton Paper company, Kaukauna.

Principals in the case of John Witt versus Appleton Machine company failed to appear at the time scheduled.

The New Spring Coat Is Known by Its Collar

The spring coats are different—there's no doubt about that—and the difference lies in the collar. It stands up firmly in the back and away from the throat, forming a becoming frame for the face and is shaped in the smart horseshoe, Medici, or Queen Anne style. Soft, silky cloths with a downy surface are used in dress coats, and the sports coat may be of cheviot, a small-patterned imported mixture or a sturdy homespun. Flare cuffs with many rows of stitching are new and accord well with the season's demand for a more feminine note in all fashions.

SHAGBARK TAN ELSONA CLOTH fashions a charming coat featuring the new slightly pouched sleeve. The stand-up collar is sable moline and the same fur is used in bands on the sleeves. Wide double crepe de chine tie. $65.00

BLACK KASHA will be the choice of many smartly dressed women and it is particularly becoming in a model with small natural fitch collar and wide double satin tie. Narrow inlays of black satin emphasize the slender outline. $55.00

A SPORTS COAT of imported cloth has a small pattern of tan and brown. The border of cloth in contrasting shade forms the facing down the front. A collar of wolf blends with the tan and brown tones of the coat. $59.50

VERY FASHIONABLE is a finely tailored coat of natural tan Kashmir-wool, lined with matching kasha. Nine rows of perfect stitching around the collar and down the front are an unusual touch. $49.50
